

Farm Board and U. S. Price Fixing Efforts Doomed

The South's
Standard
Newspaper

VOL. LXV., No. 264.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

The Largest Total City and Suburban and the Largest Total Daily Circulation of Any Atlanta Newspaper

ONLY MORNING NEWSPAPER
PUBLISHED IN ATLANTA

ATLANTA, GA., SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 4, 1933.

Entered at Atlanta Postoffice
As Second-Class Mail Matter.

A. P. Service
United Press
N. A. N. A.

Single Copies: Daily, 5c; Sunday, 10c.
Daily and Sunday: Weekly 25c; Monthly 90c.

ROOSEVELT WILL BECOME PRESIDENT TODAY IN CROWDED CAPITAL RULED BY AIR OF HOPE

'NEW FARM DEAL' PLEGGED TO U. S. BY ROOSEVELT AIDS

Morgenthau Will Reorganize Federal Agricultural Agencies Into Single Unit With Pegging Activities Ruled Out.

WALLACE PLANNING ATTACK ON SURPLUS

Next Secretary of Agriculture Will Seek "Orderly Retreat" of Lands Devoted to Excess Crops

By ROY F. HENDRICKSON.
WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—The end of the farm board's price-pegging experiment was heralded today as two men on whom the incoming Roosevelt administration will rely in its efforts to provide a "new deal" for agriculture outlined their programs.

Henry Morgenthau Jr., of New York, revealed plans for a sweeping reorganization of the government's farm credit agencies which will be centralized under his direction and will include absorption of the farm board and retirement of its members to private life soon.

Morgenthau placed emphasis on what he gave as his "first objective," taking "the government out of the stabilization business"—a declaration of policy which soon after swept through the nation's grain markets and was credited in part for the day's rise of 3 cents in wheat prices.

"Seeks Orderly Retreat," said Henry A. Wallace, who is secretary of agriculture, will share direction of the Roosevelt farm policies, inspected the department and announced that he had planned the reorganization of a program of farm farm legislation. Through it he hopes to bring about "an orderly retreat from production of farm lands now devoted to surplus crops."

Wallace, contemplating the department over which his father presided as secretary during the Harding administration, refused to reveal the details of his plans. He has been an enthusiastic supporter of the original domestic allotment plan and a critic of the farm board.

He brought with him Professor Rexford Tugwell, of Columbia University, expected to be named assistant secretary, plan director, who will assume functions now divided among seven agencies. He will be headed by one man who will be personally responsible to Morgenthau, who has tentatively styled the unified agency the "farm credit administration."

The functions of the farm board in making loans to co-operative marketing groups will form the basis of the activities of one division. Another will take over federal farm loan activities now centered in the federal farm land bank board and its affiliates.

The third division will take over the crop production loan bureau of the

Continued in Page 8, Column 2.

In Other Pages

Editorial Page 4
Farm Board 4
Army Orders 4
Daily Cross-Word Puzzle 10
Comics 10
No More Orchids 10
Society 9, 11
Whitner Cary on Bridge 8
Caroline Chaffield 11
Culbertson on Bridge 11
Sports Pages 12, 13
Ralph McGill's "Break of the Day" 12
Financial 12, 13
Tarzan 13
Theater Programs 15
Atlanta's Wants 15
Radio Programs 15
Cross Sections 16

IF YOU WANT RESULTS
Call WALNUT 6565
Say "Ad-Taker"

Place your message in the want ad pages of The Sunday Constitution where it will be seen by the largest and most responsive reader audience in the Atlanta trading area, some of whom are sure to be interested in the values or services you have to offer.

For more than 65 years advertising in The Constitution has produced results. Call WALNUT 6565 TODAY! You may "charge it."

Read and Use
The Constitution's
Want Ad Pages
"First in the Day—First to Pay"

Atlanta Clearing House Banks Issue Statement

The following statement was issued Friday by the three clearing house banks of Atlanta:

Governor Talmadge's proclamation issued today declaring a limited bank holiday throughout the state of Georgia was made necessary by conditions in the other 30 states where such holidays have been declared in rapid succession.

The governor and the banks greatly desired that their depositors should have been given notice of the proclamation in order that they might have better prepared against their immediate needs but the conditions referred to out of the state caused large withdrawals by wire, and such delay did not seem to be proper.

The banks will be open for business immediately after the moratorium shall have ended, though there may be some temporary restrictions placed upon withdrawals.

We greatly appreciate the co-operation of our depositors. Our interests are thoroughly mutual and we are determined that their inconvenience shall be reduced to the minimum.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF ATLANTA,
THE CITIZENS AND SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK,
THE FULTON NATIONAL BANK.

G. C. ADAMS ADMITS EFFORT TO EFFECT PATRONAGE 'DEAL' INAUGURATION EVE BRINGS WIDE GAINS IN CHIEF MARKETS

Farm Head Tells Probers Transaction With M. D. Collins Not Consummated; Hits Persecution

Under persistent questioning by committee, G. C. Adams, state commissioner of agriculture, whose campaign is under fire in connection with alleged sale of jobs, Friday admitted to the Sisk investigating committee that he had discussed with M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, an exchange of patronage but that "the deal was not consummated."

Adams also admitted that his son, John Adams, was given a position in the public service commission's department of the report will begin immediately thereafter, he said.

Adams was the only witness Friday, except for his brother, L. D. Adams, of Decatur, who said that he did not remember cashing a check for $35 indorsed by G. C. Adams.

In a lengthy statement to the committee, Adams denied any wrongdoing in connection with his campaign and the subsequent placing of persons in the department, and charged that enemies are seeking to persecute him and strangle his department.

In answer to questions by Senator Sisk, Adams said that he met Superintendent Collins in Macon and in Atlanta and discussed the proposition on the idea that "if I had a member of my family or friends I should have a member of his family or friends he wanted in the agricultural department."

But nothing was done finally about it, Adams said. "Mr. Collins expected to have in his department my kinsman in exchange for a book-keeper in my department, but it was not consummated."

"Well, was it proposed and agreed?" asked Sisk.

"I don't know about that. We didn't get that far with it," Adams said.

Representative Strickland asked, "Did you understand that your son, Cleve, was to be placed in the highway department within 10 days?"

"No, I did not," Adams replied.

"Did you put through a trade with Commissioner A. J. Woodruff, of the public service commission?" Strickland asked.

"No, Mr. Woodruff did put my son, John, in his department, but he said that it was with the understanding

Continued in Page 4, Column 8.

Cummings Temporary Choice For Attorney Generalship

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—President-elect Roosevelt today announced the appointment of Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, as attorney-general in the place of the late Senator Walsh, of Montana.

The appointment is temporary—"for a few weeks"—after which Cummings will proceed to the Philippines to become governor-general of that island possession. The following announcement was made on behalf of Mr. Roosevelt by his secretary, Stephen T. Early:

"Mr. Roosevelt had expected to announce the selection of Mr. Homer Cummings, of Connecticut, to be governor-general of the Philippines."

"Because of the untimely death of Senator Walsh he has asked Mr. Cummings to assume the post of attorney-general for a few weeks before going to the Philippines."

This announcement was made after a conference of almost two hours between the president-elect and Mr. Cummings and before the latter had left the Roosevelt suite in the Mayflower hotel.

BANKS OF ATLANTA ORDERED TO CLOSE FOR 3-DAY HOLIDAY

Action in Other States Forces Talmadge Proclamation; Georgia Banks Sound, Gormley Says.

Atlanta banks, in compliance with a three-day holiday proclaimed Friday by Governor Eugene Talmadge, will be closed today and Monday. They will be open for business again when the moratorium shall have ended, according to a statement by the three clearing house institutions.

Because of the drain of funds out of Georgia to other states which previously had declared bank holidays, the governor ordered the proclamation, which went into effect at 11 o'clock Friday, released. At that time the larger banks of the city, with the exception of the Citizens and Southern National bank, closed their doors and posted copies of the executive order.

Out-of-State Withdrawals.

In a statement signed by the Citizens and Southern National, the First National and the Fulton National banks, appearing elsewhere in the paper, these three members of the Atlanta clearing house said:

"The governor and the banks greatly desired that their depositors should have been given notice of the proclamation in order that they might have better prepared against their immediate needs but the conditions referred to out of the state caused large withdrawals by wire and such delay did not seem to be proper."

"The banks will be open for business immediately after the moratorium shall have ended, though there may be some temporary restrictions placed upon withdrawals."

Under a law recently enacted by congress, the controller of the currency in Washington is empowered to place national banks under the same restrictions as state authorities may place upon state banks.

In his holiday proclamation Governor Talmadge, referring to the large withdrawals outside the state, said: "Drain on Banks Cited."

"... The banks in this state are being daily called upon to transmit funds to other states in which banking has been declared and our banks are on account of such large withdrawals unable to withdraw from such other states the amounts which are due to them. It is exceedingly unfair to permit funds to be drained out of this state to areas where holidays have been declared."

Governor Talmadge, in his proclamation, emphasized the fact that the banks of Georgia are generally in good condition.

All banks in Savannah remained open Friday until the usual closing hour of 2 o'clock, but there and in the other cities of Georgia the banks are

Continued in Page 4, Column 7.

CONGRESS SHOWS RELATED ACTIVITY

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Still battling to get the annual appropriation bills through before adjournment, the house went into a night session tonight but saw little action.

Nine of the 11 supply measures have been passed. President Hoover's plan for the house went into a night session tonight but saw little action.

The remaining measure—the second deficiency—was moved a step nearer to the night session with the house giving approval to the conference report. Senate action tomorrow is expected.

Out of the confusion which hung

Continued in Page 4, Column 5.

Girl, 22, Dies at Grady After Drinking Poison

Miss Alice Taranto, 22, of 630 South Pryor street, died early Friday night at Grady hospital as the result of a quantity of poison which she took at a meat market on Broad street a short time previously, according to police reports.

Relatives and friends of the girl said she took the poison because of family difficulties. Physicians at the hospital said the poison was one of the most deadly known to medical science. The young woman was taken to the hospital by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sells, of 410 Central avenue, who said she told them on the way that she wanted to die because she had had trouble with her family.

Miss Taranto, who was employed as cashier at the market where she took the poison, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benzon Taranto; four brothers, Dr. Morris Taranto, of Atlanta; Ephram Taranto, of Montgomery, Ala.; Joe Taranto, of Birmingham, Ala.; and Abe Taranto, of Mobile, and four sisters, Mrs. Sadie Yohai, Mrs. Catherine Galanti, Mrs. Esther Capouno, and Mrs. Julia Pinto, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held Sunday by Rabbi Abraham Gabay, officiating. Other arrangements are to be announced by Sam Greenberg & Company.

President-Elect's Last Day as Mr. Roosevelt Is Featured by Almost Ceaseless Activities

Hereafter you may address Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, above, care of the White House, Washington, D. C. (the mansion shown below). Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, below, outgoing tenants, may be reached at Palo Alto, Cal. The new tenants have a four-year lease with renewal option.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.
WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—It was a day of humming, ceaseless activity for Franklin D. Roosevelt, this last before he assumes the highest magistracy of the nation.

Before he had arisen he began a series of conferences with his party's leaders, broken by the announcement of important appointments, pre-inaugural formalities and the gravity of a call upon the widow of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, whom he had chosen for his attorney-general.

The cabinet place made vacant by Walsh's death en route to Washington, he filled by the appointment of Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, for a limited tenure. Cummings later is to become governor-general of the Philippines.

Problems of every kind, principally the domestic banking situation and the impending international discussions on world economics and war debts, occupied the attention of the president-elect from the moment of his inauguration.

The swift-moving events of the closing days of congress and of national financial affairs were closely watched but the president-elect calmly bided his time. He is taking no action until he takes over the reins of government on the front steps of the capitol tomorrow afternoon. He is ready to act, his immediate friends say, but he is going to wait until he can act in his own right and do whatever the situation at the time demands.

Meantime members of his official family probed about the departments they will occupy, ready to swing into action Monday at the side of their chief.

Mr. Roosevelt had no time to listen to or even receive the many reports of rising prices on the commodity and stock exchanges which obviously

Continued in Page 2, Column 2.

NEGRO IS HUNTED IN CONVERS CRIME

CONYERS, Ga., March 3.—Posses of citizens were hunting tonight for a negro charged with the killing of W. E. Stanley, 78, farmer who lived alone at his home in the Loraine district about 10 miles from here.

Stanley's body was discovered early Friday buried under straw and bricks in a shallow grave about 150 yards from his farm residence. A coroner's jury today returned a verdict that he died from wounds inflicted by unknown parties. He had been shot twice in the body, once with a shotgun and once with a rifle. Doctors stated that either shot would have proven fatal.

A negro tried to trade an automobile early Friday at an automobile establishment in East Point. The presence of a shotgun and rifle, with several suits of clothes, etc., in the trunk, aroused suspicion and, when questioned, the negro ran. The automobile was identified as the property of Stanley and it was following this that Sheriff L. D. Hightower visited the Stanley home and found the body.

Stanley drew a small amount of money from the bank on Monday and the motive of the crime is believed to have been robbery.

The negro who escaped at East Point was recognized and it is believed that an arrest will be made shortly.

Continued in Page 8, Column 2.

Mrs. Roosevelt Decides To Attend the Ball

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(UP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has cancelled virtually all of her inaugural social engagements out of respect for Senator Thomas J. Walsh, announced tonight she would attend the inaugural ball here Saturday night.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she had changed her plans after Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the inaugural committee, had explained the function was being given for the benefit of charity and many persons would be disappointed by her absence.

Three trainloads of Georgians arrived this morning and within an hour the state's delegation to the inauguration was scattered all over the District of Columbia, some visiting the house, some more going to the senate and others just "going about."

Because of the unexpected death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who was to be the Roosevelt attorney-general, the social problem of the inauguration has been greatly curtailed. This, added to the news from Georgia of a bank holiday back home served to dampen somewhat the spirit of the Georgia party, but for the most part they made the most of the day, which will be told from generation to generation.

The state's delegation is headed by Governor Eugene Talmadge, Chair-

NATION TRUSTING 'NEW DEAL' CHIEF TO DISPEL GLOOM

Bright Skies Expected as Democrat Takes Oath to Highest Office at 12:50 in Stand Before Capitol While Thousands Watch

INAUGURAL SPEECH REMAINS SECRET

Leader's Millions of Followers Expect Brief Address To Sound Keynote of New Day.

By EDWARD J. DUFFY.
WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Intent on the mammoth task confronting him, Franklin D. Roosevelt busied himself to the verge of the very morning of the day that will embark him on the task of bringing order out of confusion.

From early morning until late tonight, the president-elect conferred on topics ranging from his momentous plans to revivify national and international trade to details of the gala inaugural celebration.

There was talk of early to bed, but instead—while the tens of thousands here to do him homage tomorrow see the capital at a glance—he met with his secretary of the treasury, William H. Woodin, with Senator Glass, of Virginia, and others.

At sunset he had sat down with President Hoover and advisers to both of them at the White House, gathering a last-minute information from the outgoing administration to help the incoming regime.

The democrats were able to get a happy augury for the morrow from the weather bureau in its forecast of fair and cool for this last inauguration to be held on the historic date of March 4.

Under the latest constitutional amendment, future inaugurations will be in January.

If frolic there was plenty, but here and there among the merry-makers were knots of serious-faced visitors and residents in earnest discussion. Their talk was of what is to come, their hopes and opinions of what impends with the arrival of the first change from republican to the stricken Woodrow Wilson road from the White House to the capitol with Warren G. Harding in 1921.

Speech Is Secret.

To the very last the president-elect kept to himself the message he plans to give them, when shortly before 1 p. m. he has been sworn as president on the banner-draped stand in front of the capitol.

In the few spare minutes he had today between calls, Mr. Roosevelt put the finishing touches on the address. He has made it among the briefest in history. He took advantage of the last-minute views of members of his cabinet and congress, and speculation arose that a special session within a matter of days.

Along with so many others, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt and the vice president.

Continued in Page 2, Column 3.

The Weather FAIR.

WASHINGTON—Forecast:
Georgia: Fair Saturday and Sunday; slowly rising temperature.

Local Weather Report.

Highest temperature 48
Lowest temperature 27
Mean temperature 38
Normal temperature 49
Rainfall in past 12 hrs., ins.00
Deficiency since 1st of mo., ins. 3.30
Deficiency since Jan. 1, ins. 2.04
Total rainfall since Jan. 1, ins. 8.18

7 a.m. Noon. 7 p.m.

Dry temperature 27 42 39
Wet bulb 24 35 33
Relative humidity 68 44 50

Reports of Weather Bureau Stations.

STATIONS AND STATE OF WEATHER	Temperature	Wind	Barometer
ATLANTA, clear	38	40	30.00
Birmingham, clear	40	50	30.00
Boston, clear	40	50	30.00
Buffalo, clear	40	50	30.00
Chicago, clear	40	50	30.00
Cincinnati, clear	40	50	30.00
Cleveland, clear	40	50	30.00
Denver, clear	40	50	30.00
Des Moines, clear	40	50	30.00
Detroit, clear	40	50	30.00
Indianapolis, clear	40	50	30.00
Jacksonville, clear	40	50	30.00
Kansas City, clear	40	50	30.00
Los Angeles, clear	40	50	30.00
Madison, clear	40	50	30.00
Memphis, clear	40	50	30.00
Minneapolis, clear	40	50	30.00
Mobile, clear	40	50	30.00
Montgomery, clear	40	50	30.00
New Orleans, clear	40	50	30.00
New York, clear	40	50	30.00
Oakland, clear	40	50	30.00
Phoenix, clear	40	50	30.00
Pittsburgh, clear	40	50	30.00
Raleigh, clear	40	50	30.00
San Francisco, clear	40	50	30.00
St. Louis, clear	40	50	30.00
Savannah, clear	40	50	30.00
St. Paul, clear	40	50	30.00
Tampa, clear	40	50	30.00
Toledo, clear	40	50	30.00
Wash. D. C., clear	40	50	30.00

Continued in Page 2, Column 5.

HOOVER'S LAST DAY IS FULL OF ACTIVITY

President Bids Farewell to Cabinet, Little Cabinet and Reporters.

BY JOHN F. CHESTER.
WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Final contacts, a whole series of "last times," may tinged with the pathos of farewell, filled President Hoover's last full day as the nation's chief executive.

His cabinet gathered for its final meeting, a session in which grave discussion of the nation's economic difficulties was mingled with personal gifts and farewells.

Late in the day he had what may prove an historic discussion with President-elect Roosevelt, ostensibly on the White House as an inaugural formality, but accompanied by his economic adviser, Professor Raymond Moley, to assist Mr. Hoover, Secretary Mills and Governor Meyer, of the federal reserve board, were present.

Not until an hour after their departure was it disclosed that while the entire group sat in the historic room drinking tea poured by Mrs. Hoover, the president and president-elect had withdrawn to one corner of the room and called in their economic advisers for a conference of high moment.

Earlier Mr. Hoover had called in newspaper correspondents for a meeting with them. He talked along a more personal vein than he had displayed to them for years past. "I have no news today," the president began. "There is plenty of news in other quarters."

He invited any of the group to visit him in the west coast home where more time could be had for "talk."

Throughout virtually the entire day, Mr. Hoover had turned swiftly through a program encompassing the signing of more than a score of bills, a round of official farewells, handshaking, conferences and packing—all carried on at a tempo reaching a new crescendo for his last days in the White House.

The president received a final farewell also from his "little cabinet," composed of assistant secretaries of the departments. He posed with them all for a photograph several nights ago at a dinner in his honor, but the photographer's machinery went awry. The performance was repeated today on the south lawn.

Miss Catherine Shea, treasury department messenger who has brought presidents their pay for years, handed Mr. Hoover's secretary two checks today. One read $500 and the other $125. The latter he turned back to the treasury as representing a proper share of the $15,000 pay cut he imposed on himself.

W. E. Roberts Co.
General Agents
ROYAL INDEMNITY CO.

We write burglary insurance. See us for rates—this is a time you'd like to be properly insured.

456 Hurt Bldg.
Phone WA. 4202

Mothers:—
Bring the children to Edwards for the finest solid leather shoes in Atlanta at lowest possible prices.

Girls' Oxfords
Goodyear Welt Soles
20 new styles in beautiful Two-Tone Elk or Calfskin. Leather or Tropic Soles. Either low or raised heels.

Visit Our Jungleland Dept.
FOR THE FAMOUS "Red Goose" Shoes
FOR CHILDREN

Misses' Dressy Straps
A dozen new styles in straps or pumps. Beautiful patent leather, black or black calf.

STRAPS OR OXFORDS
A special sale of 800 pairs children's Straps and Oxfords in Patents, Blacks, Two-tone Elks, Leather or Composition Soles.

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

after SMOKING
Soothes the throat. Freshens the mouth.
VICKS VapoRub
OVERCOMES BAD BREATH

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

Telegrams to Roosevelt Swamp Atlanta Office

There was no depression in the business of congratulatory telegrams pouring through Atlanta offices of the Western Union Telegraph Company Friday to President-elect Roosevelt in Washington, N. W. Hendrix, superintendent, said.

"We have to go back to the usual routine," Hendrix explained, "to find anything approaching the present wave of popular enthusiasm as reflected in the good wishes going over the wires. Cabinet officers also are receiving numerous congratulations by wire."

President-elect Roosevelt was busy on last day as Mr. Roosevelt brought a new relief to anxious officials.

Continued from First Page.

When the word was flashed back here, however, that the president-elect was preparing a statement on the banking situation it brought a quick denial from the Roosevelt conference room.

Speaker Garner was the first caller received today by Mr. Roosevelt, who, as usual, ate his breakfast in bed as he received early morning visitors and hurried through his correspondence.

Without doubt, he and Speaker Garner discussed the date for the extra session of the new congress and an early call is expected, probably by March 15.

Senator Buckley, of Ohio, an authority on banking legislation, was among the first callers and the ground work is being laid, in all probability, for early banking legislation.

The whirl of democratic events at the Mayflower hotel, the party headquarters—brought into the picture the names of several prominent party members for important appointments.

At the Union station and on the highway and airport entrances today, the tale was the same—one of constantly streaming arrivals.

More than 200 special and regular trains poured in from thousands of towns and cities, bearing license plates of far-flung states, and air traffic had its own good share of arrivals.

W. Forbes Morgan, distant relative of Mr. Roosevelt, was headed definitely for assistant secretary of commerce.

The name of Russell Amory, of Los Angeles, was advanced rather authoritatively for chief of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

The day also appeared to be the contest for commissioner of internal revenue. Robert H. Gore, of Chicago, continued to be named as the Roosevelt choice.

Arthur Mullen, of Nebraska, another Roosevelt lieutenant, was called into conference late today by the president-elect as he considered his attorney-general. He is regarded as a possibility for permanent choice in this office.

With some realignment in his office family necessary, Mr. Roosevelt also called in James A. Farley, national party chairman and new postmaster-general.

Huston Thompson, of Colorado, former chairman of the federal trade commission, also was a visitor in the Roosevelt suite as the question of an attorney-general was up.

The day also offered opportunity for several of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet members to call and shake hands. The group included Senator Swanson, of Virginia, the secretary of the navy, Harold L. Ickes, of Chicago, secretary of the interior, and Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture.

Senator Hull, of Tennessee, the secretary of state, was among the first callers today. He was accompanied by Professor Raymond Moley, economic expert and the next first assistant secretary of state.

Professor Rexford Tugwell, another economic adviser and slated for assistant secretary of agriculture, called with Mr. Wallace.

Slump Closes Oldest Smithy.
Boston's oldest smithy, in Creek street, where horses and been shod for 91 years, has closed for lack of business.

ROOSEVELT TAKES PRESIDENCY TODAY

Air of Hope Rules Capital on Eve of Inauguration.

Continued from First Page.

elict and Mrs. Garner were heartened by the prospect of a clear, cool day for the inauguration. "A perfect weather," as it was said.

"Probably fair," was the forecast, the subject of quips among the democratic cohorts who harked back to the advent of the Hoover administration just four years ago.

The president and Mrs. Hoover wished the newcomers to the White House well, while in the late afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt—accompanied by their son, James, and his wife—paid a formal call of respect at the executive mansion.

Heavy Ticket Demand.
This is the most elaborate and decorated of the rows of cars parked along Pennsylvania avenue. For days past the story has been one of great demand for the tickets, with prices ranging as high as several dollars.

While the guests gazed in amazement at the elaborate and her good nature, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, smiling and untroubled, shook hands in the afternoon with nearly 1,000 women at a reception to which 300 had been invited.

Then, looking as fresh as though she were just leaving the hotel for the first time that day, she went off with her husband and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, to have tea at the White House, which tomorrow is to become her home.

Except for her radio talk, Mrs. Roosevelt had no engagements tonight. Originally her program called for her to attend the dinner of the doctors, a concert for the benefit of the unemployed, and the reception to the governors at the Pan-American Union.

Mrs. Roosevelt made one other visit with her husband to the Mayflower hotel, where there was another big crowd, but she could not stay there so long, being obliged to hurry back and forth between here and there through the day.

Accommodations Scarce.
Late comers were hard put to it to find accommodations tonight. Hotels long ago had been filled up, even with doubling in some rooms, and latecomers were put up in private homes had their hands full.

Souvenir, flag and program were rapidly sold out. Early morning buyers of the Roosevelt program, which was sold at a price of 10 cents, were disappointed.

And from the looks of things, when the great parade gets started at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, all the windows in the city will be filled with people.

Before the gala procession of dignitaries and officials of the city and the nation will be carried through.

To take the day from the standpoint of the president-to-be, he will rise somewhat earlier than his custom and attend a brief, private prayer service at St. John's Episcopal church—across Lafayette square from the White House—at 10 o'clock.

Only members of his family and a few close friends will be present. The pastor, the Rev. Robert Johnson, will officiate.

Leave for White House.
Then at 11 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. and Mrs. Garner will be escorted by congressional deputations to the White House, to leave almost immediately for the capital in the company of the president and Mrs. Hoover.

At noon the vice president-to-be will be sworn by Vice President Curtis. He will immediately turn over the gavel to him. Mr. Garner plans a brief extemporaneous address on taking position as the president of the senate after his more than 20 years of strenuous activity in the house of representatives from Texas.

Watching in the gallery will be his wife and son, Tully, with his wife and daughter, Genevieve, as well as a group of intimate friends and relatives.

Next, the dignitaries will proceed to the stand fronting the capitol, where Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes will administer the oath to the new president in the presence of thousands seated and standing across the immense plaza. Amplifiers will carry to them the words of the inaugural address.

At this point, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will leave to entrain—the former to go to New York with his son, Allan, for a few days before taking a vacation cruise; the latter to leave at Philadelphia with their other son, Herbert Jr., for California.

While that train carries Mr. Hoover to private life for the first time since he undertook the cares of the food administration in war days, the man who was his associate as assistant secretary of the navy in those days will be taking a last look at the new president in the court of honor to review the hours-long parade.

Georgians Present.
Watching the parade, too, in a specially reserved section of the stands, will be a brave group of Franklin Roosevelt's afflicted friends from the Warm Springs (Ga.) health center—who have followed his fortunes so enthusiastically.

He had it seen especially that they should get every courtesy, and they showed their appreciation and affection for him when they arrived this morning from Georgia.

Should Mr. Roosevelt choose, he can find many reminders of his heavy responsibilities, of his political fortunes, of his variety of friends and numberless other public and personal features: that parade that will last from 2:30 until after 5 p. m.

First will be reminders of his wartime days and of preparation, in the military and naval units following the grand marshal, General Douglas MacArthur and behind them, cadet corps and bands from Virginia and Washington.

Then his postmaster-general, James A. Farley, as marshal of the section of governors, who will be serenaded from time to time by the Coe College band, of Iowa. The governors doubtless will be care-free enough then, but on the next day they look forward to sitting down in serious conference

after SMOKING
Soothes the throat. Freshens the mouth.
VICKS VapoRub
OVERCOMES BAD BREATH

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

Inaugural Day Schedule

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Including revisions made because of the death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, here is the program for the inaugural ceremonies tomorrow:

9 A. M.—Aerial demonstration, probably including airship Akron and 100 military planes, begins.

11 A. M.—President-elect Roosevelt arrives at White House from Mayflower hotel to pick up President Hoover.

11:55 A. M.—The presidential party, including Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Hoover, leaves White House for capitol.

12 Noon—Vice President Garner sworn in at senate chamber.

12:50 P. M.—President Roosevelt sworn in. Delivers inaugural address from stand on east plaza of the capitol.

1:05 P. M.—President Roosevelt completes inaugural address.

1:15 P. M.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt leave capitol, heading parade. Former President and Mrs. Hoover entrain for New York.

1:35 P. M.—Luncheon. Entertainment of 300 guests cancelled because of Walsh mourning.

2:30 P. M.—Inaugural parade reaches White House. President and Mrs. Roosevelt go to court of honor reviewing stand.

5 P. M.—Review ended. Tentative: President and Mrs. Roosevelt entertain at tea.

8 P. M.—Tentative: President and Mrs. Roosevelt entertain 60 at dinner.

10 P. M. to 2 A. M.—Inaugural ball at Washington auditorium. Mrs. Roosevelt cancelled attendance on account of mourning.

6 to 11 P. M.—Drills, fireworks, street festival, etc.

Strenuous Day Marks Close Of Mrs. Roosevelt's Private Life

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Washington today had half a dozen glimpses of the tall, swiftly moving woman who will become tomorrow the mistress of its most important household, and smiled back at her, breathlessly and a little bewildered.

While the guests gazed in amazement at the elaborate and her good nature, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, smiling and untroubled, shook hands in the afternoon with nearly 1,000 women at a reception to which 300 had been invited.

Then, looking as fresh as though she were just leaving the hotel for the first time that day, she went off with her husband and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, to have tea at the White House, which tomorrow is to become her home.

Except for her radio talk, Mrs. Roosevelt had no engagements tonight. Originally her program called for her to attend the dinner of the doctors, a concert for the benefit of the unemployed, and the reception to the governors at the Pan-American Union.

Mrs. Roosevelt made one other visit with her husband to the Mayflower hotel, where there was another big crowd, but she could not stay there so long, being obliged to hurry back and forth between here and there through the day.

Accommodations Scarce.
Late comers were hard put to it to find accommodations tonight. Hotels long ago had been filled up, even with doubling in some rooms, and latecomers were put up in private homes had their hands full.

Souvenir, flag and program were rapidly sold out. Early morning buyers of the Roosevelt program, which was sold at a price of 10 cents, were disappointed.

And from the looks of things, when the great parade gets started at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, all the windows in the city will be filled with people.

Before the gala procession of dignitaries and officials of the city and the nation will be carried through.

To take the day from the standpoint of the president-to-be, he will rise somewhat earlier than his custom and attend a brief, private prayer service at St. John's Episcopal church—across Lafayette square from the White House—at 10 o'clock.

Only members of his family and a few close friends will be present. The pastor, the Rev. Robert Johnson, will officiate.

Leave for White House.
Then at 11 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. and Mrs. Garner will be escorted by congressional deputations to the White House, to leave almost immediately for the capital in the company of the president and Mrs. Hoover.

At noon the vice president-to-be will be sworn by Vice President Curtis. He will immediately turn over the gavel to him. Mr. Garner plans a brief extemporaneous address on taking position as the president of the senate after his more than 20 years of strenuous activity in the house of representatives from Texas.

Watching in the gallery will be his wife and son, Tully, with his wife and daughter, Genevieve, as well as a group of intimate friends and relatives.

Next, the dignitaries will proceed to the stand fronting the capitol, where Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes will administer the oath to the new president in the presence of thousands seated and standing across the immense plaza. Amplifiers will carry to them the words of the inaugural address.

At this point, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will leave to entrain—the former to go to New York with his son, Allan, for a few days before taking a vacation cruise; the latter to leave at Philadelphia with their other son, Herbert Jr., for California.

While that train carries Mr. Hoover to private life for the first time since he undertook the cares of the food administration in war days, the man who was his associate as assistant secretary of the navy in those days will be taking a last look at the new president in the court of honor to review the hours-long parade.

Georgians Present.
Watching the parade, too, in a specially reserved section of the stands, will be a brave group of Franklin Roosevelt's afflicted friends from the Warm Springs (Ga.) health center—who have followed his fortunes so enthusiastically.

He had it seen especially that they should get every courtesy, and they showed their appreciation and affection for him when they arrived this morning from Georgia.

Should Mr. Roosevelt choose, he can find many reminders of his heavy responsibilities, of his political fortunes, of his variety of friends and numberless other public and personal features: that parade that will last from 2:30 until after 5 p. m.

First will be reminders of his wartime days and of preparation, in the military and naval units following the grand marshal, General Douglas MacArthur and behind them, cadet corps and bands from Virginia and Washington.

ENGLAND'S PRESS SEES 'NEW DEAL'

Editorials Pledge Friendship and Pray Roosevelt Will Lead World.

LONDON, March 4.—(Saturday.)—The British press signalled the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt today with reminders of his great opportunity and an almost prayerful plea for leadership of his own nation and, therefore, the world, out of economic difficulty.

Beverly Baxter, one of the most forceful of British journalists and the new editor-in-chief of the Daily Express, in a leading editorial headed, "A Message to President Roosevelt," from the Editor of the Daily Express, after calling attention to the eminence of the presidential office in normal times, said:

"You mount your republican throne with the sympathy and prayers of people throughout the world. There are few who would take your place and bid you fail."

"From the windows of the White House you may well look out upon your country and wonder from what source will come salvation. And from there, in a leading editorial headed, 'Further and Ask, What Friend have we in the whole wide world?'"

"Shall I answer the latter question, Mr. President? You and your country are, in a leading editorial headed, 'Further and Ask, What Friend have we in the whole wide world?'"

Continuing, Mr. Baxter comments on the mutual difficulties of the two countries and on the personal types of each country which are antipathetic to each other. Then he says:

"There are fools who think you lack courage as a nation. What are the skyscrapers of New York but monuments of courage, what are your railways that bind the coasts with ribs of steel but tributes to the sinews and hearts of your builders? People are saying now, 'God help America, but I say, 'God help the nation that thinks the spirit of America is broken.'"

"More than any other nation England still is your mother country, the nurse of your past, the source of your traditions. When you are harassed and perplexed, think of the people of England, the winding lanes of England, the cottage homes of England, and know that England is your friend."

"May you prove in the years that lie ahead that your escape from an assassin's bullet was no mere chance, but that it was fate saving you for the service of your people."

The Daily Mail, after calling attention to the great upheaval which the depression represents, says:

"Roosevelt brings to his work more of personal magnetism than any president since his famous namesake, and an unblemished record of integrity. It may yet be that he will show the strength of character which enabled Lincoln 70 years ago to lead his country through extraordinary dangers to one of the triumphs of history."

BODY OF WALSH TO REST IN STATE

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—The body of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who died yesterday, will lie in state Monday—mourned by his colleagues and friends in all walks of life.

In answer to the wish of his widow and bride of a week, Senora Nieves Perez Chaumont Walsh, of Cuba, the body will be carried forward to night for the solemn ceremonies of a state funeral in the senate chamber Monday morning.

Then to a last resting place at his home in Montana the body will be taken for final burial rites in the Resurrection cemetery, in Helena, probably Thursday or Friday.

Although the hour for the state ceremony has not been definitely fixed, it is expected to be 10 o'clock when all members of congress, diplomatic and judicial notables and other friends will join the family in expressing their sympathy.

Roosevelt suggested that the time be fixed at an hour which would permit his attendance.

To the apartment of the senator at fashionable 1601 Crescent place, he went today a constant stream of high and low in national affairs to pay their tributes to the quiet but fearless Montana man who died early yesterday en route from Florida to Washington.

President-elect and Mrs. Roosevelt, despite the heavy pressure of plans for his inauguration as chief executive at noon tomorrow, went to the apartment to express their condolences to his widow.

was on. Governor Talmadge said afterwards that Long and he just talked over personal matters during the conference.

All day long there was a steady stream of callers on Senators George and Russell, many of them no doubt talking patronage, but when night came the number of the callers who would discuss these affairs, although Senator Russell said he hoped he would have his patronage slate filled out by April 1.

Many Visitors to House.
The house, too, was the Mecca of a number of members of the Georgia party. Congressman Robert Ramspeck of Atlanta, had more than his share of visitors, while the rest of the delegation likewise was kept busy seeing their friends and helping them get about the city.

After such a round of activities the whole party retired early, intent upon the day of days—tomorrow.

3,000 GEORGIANS SEE BIG EVENT
Continued from First Page.

Georgia national guard, which came to Washington on the governor's special and furnished Georgia music to the crowds which gathered about the stations at every stop on the train made on its journey northward.

Governor Talmadge spent part of this afternoon on the floor of the senate. He sat for some time with Senator Walter F. George and later pulled up a chair beside that of Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. Senator Huey P. Long, the Louisiana kingfish, spent the Georgia governor and in a few minutes a cloak-room conference

QUICK RELIEF FROM COLDS
MISTOL
FOR NOSE AND THROAT
Essence of Mistol
ON HANDKERCHIEF AND PILLOW

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

53 Whitehall St.—Corner Alabama

Pre-Inaugural Highlights

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—A low pressure area has been forced by high pressure areas toward Greenland—all of which in non-technical language means that it will be fair tomorrow. It rained hard all day on March 4, 1929.

Among those on the staff of Governor Louis J. Brann, of Maine, is Lieutenant Commander Rudy Valle.

Pennsylvania didn't go for Roosevelt but it is helping brighten inauguration festivities nevertheless. The capital's electric power system has been supplemented by current from the hydro-driven turbines on the Susquehanna river at Cape Harbor, Pa.

For a few moments today it was doubtful whether Daniel Frohman, well-known theatrical producer, would witness the inauguration. His automobile hit a street car but there were no injuries.

One of the biggest ovations during the inaugural parade is expected for "The Man Who Might Have Been"—Alfred E. Smith, of New York, who will wear the regalia of a Tammany sachem during tomorrow's procession.

Indians in tribal costume will be massed in the parade. The units include: Sioux Indian bugle and drum corps; Standing Rock reservation, North Dakota; Chief Jasper Saunseah and a group of Kiowas from Oklahoma; Chief Big Man of the Crows of Montana; Chief John H. Hayes, of the Chippewas of North Dakota; and Chief Greasy, of the 18 Sioux braves from South Dakota.

Visiting governors engaged in "shop talk" during the night of the inauguration. "What's your state doing about taxes?" was a favorite question as one chief executive greeted another.

If Franklin D. Roosevelt said—as some depose—that he would borrow Fred Bots' silk hat for the inauguration, he's either going to be bareheaded tomorrow, or some amazingly fast work will be required. Bots, business manager of the Warm Springs (Ga.) foundation where Roosevelt waged a comeback campaign against infantile paralysis, arrived today without his silk top hat.

But maybe Mr. Roosevelt was kidding—or his friends may have misquoted him.

If anyone wants to know why the grand army of the republic isn't in the inaugural parade, flashing-eyed John B. King, the grand commander, now one of that picturesque Civil War group door-keeping at the house of representatives, will tell him.

The G. A. R. isn't parading because it wasn't invited to parade.

Before he takes the oath as president of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt will go with his cabinet to church for prayer services.

The purpose of the gathering, to be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at St. John's Episcopal church, was expressed this way by the Rev. Robert Johnson, the rector:

"A private citizen is going to church before undertaking a great office and he is going to say his prayers."

Herbert Hoover, who is going back to California after a vacation

Don't Miss These Saving Values! Today! Last Day--

HIGH'S Swallow Sale

Check Your Needs! Fill Them With These Specials!

Sale! Toiletries

Last Day—Swallow Sale Price

Talcum and Dusting Powder

$2.20 Hudnut Deauville Dusting Powder	$1.10
$1 Djer-Kiss Talcum	59c
25c J & J Talcum	19c
75c Nadinola Dusting Powder	25c
$1.50 Woodworth's Viegay Dusting Powder	49c
$1 Novelty Dusting Powder with Tray	39c

Perfumes—Toilet Waters

$3.85 Karesse Toilet Water	$1.25
$2 Karesse Perfume	89c
$3 oz. Bouquet and Amber Perfume, dram	19c
$2.50 Fiancee Toilet Water	$1
$3 Chienier Perfume Gift Package	$1
75c Dier-Kiss Perfume	19c

Face Powders

$1 Terri Face Powder	39c
$1.85 Coty Combination, Powder and Perfume	98c
$1.95 Fiancee Combination, Powder and Perfume	85c
$2.75 Dubarry Combination, Powder with Introductory Set	$2

Creams and Lotions

$1 Melba Foundation Cream	39c
55c Woodbury Creams	39c
55c Melba Vanishing Cream	29c
$1 Melba Bleaching Cream	39c
75c Krank Pink Blush Cream	39c
50c Lemon and Almond Lotion	29c
75c Noxema Cream	49c
60c Italian Balm	49c

Home Remedies

60c Pure Aspirin, 100 tablets	39c
50c Milk of Magnesia	33c
50c Witch Hazel	31c
50c Mifflin Alcohol	29c
75c Plough's Mouth Wash	39c
15c Peroxide	9c

Miscellaneous

25c Kleenex	3 Boxes 50c
35c Pinetrine Shaving Cream	10c
50c Detoxol Paste	39c each
or	3 Tubes $1
$1.50 Combination Syringe and Hot Water Bottle	69c
75c Tek Combination, Tooth Brush and Mannikew Stick	49c

16-Pc. Luncheon Sets

Take advantage of this LOW Swallow Sale Price! Sparkling green or rose glass. Four each luncheon or grill plates, footed glasses, cups and saucers.

94c

HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

Bargains! Reg. 98c, $1.19 and $1.49

Priscilla Curtains

Last Day—Swallow Sale Price 74c Pr.

Airy—ruffled curtains; also tailored curtains! Women are buying with enthusiasm. Plain or figured marquisette—every color—don't miss this!

$6 Shaikai Repp Damask Drapes, pr...	$4.77
$1 and $1.25 Window Shades, ea...	47c
$2.98 Chintz Drapes, pr.	$1.67

Axminster Rugs

Made by Alexander Smith & Sons

Grasp this chance! All-wool face—seamless—patterned in good colors. Size 8-3x10-6 and 9x12.

$44.50
Oriental Reproductions
Size 9x12-ft.!

$29.77

FREE

All-Hair Rug Cushion with every $29.77 Rug.

Choice! Every Collar Attached and Collar to Match

Men's $1.55 and $1.95 "Marlboro" Shirts

LAST DAY AT THIS PRICE!

- Warwick Broadcloth
- Duotone Checks
- Duotone Fabrics
- Beaverbrook Madras
- Broadridge Broadcloth
- Troon Madras
- Chantungs

NEWEST PATTERNS—
COLORS — ALL SIZES

Men! Women! What a bargain! The absolute rightness of a "Marlboro" shirt gives a man poise, confidence! Imagine—buying these shirts at this price! Don't forget—you'll pay more after today—buy for the future as well as now!

MEN'S STORE—HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

Men's SUIT SMASH!

Two-Pants Suits

Reg. $22.50! All-Wool!

All-Wool Worsteds! All-Wool Twists! All-Wool Cheviots!
All-Wool Basket Weaves! Greys! Tans! Blues! Browns!

We're telling you, men! Nothing like this in years! Men will welcome this chance to save—on NEW SPRING SUITS—distinctive styling, specified tailoring—hand-picked, ALL-WOOL fabrics. Whatever you do—remember this is the LAST DAY at this price—be here—see them!

A Small Deposit
Will Hold Your Selection!

MEN'S STORE—HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

$14.95

Alterations
Free of Charge

Scarfs! Detachable Cape and Cape Sleeves!

Girls' $7.98 Coats

Last Day—Swallow Sale Price

$4.98

Spring's smartest for girls! Polo styles and tweeds, with all the details and tailoring found in grown-up's clothes. Skipper blue, tan, green, rust. Sizes 7 to 16.

Tots' Coats

$2.98 to $5.98

Mothers, get FIRST choice—irresistible styles—colors—reds, greens, blues, tans, tile. Navy cheviots, flannels, polo styles and tweeds—ALL with berets. 1 to 6 sizes.

HIGH'S THIRD FLOOR

Tots' Wash Frocks

Last Day—Swallow Sale Price

Tub-fast!

59c

Sizes
1 to 6!

Mothers will throng to this sale!—buying for months to come! Thrilled with the values—the savings—that surpass anything they've seen in a long, long time.

Solid Broadcloths! Prints!
Solid Sheers!

Dainty, adorable affairs—trimmed with white organdy, fagoting, smocking—adorable puff sleeves!

HIGH'S THIRD FLOOR

They're New!—Different—Girls'

Silk Dresses

$4.98
Values!

$3.98

Last Day—Swallow Sale Price

So new! Imagine solids with print blouses, twin prints, jumpers, one and two-piece styles, detachable capes, two-piece styles with jackets, puffed sleeves. Newest spring shades, and just remember—ALL-SILK CREPE! Sizes 7 to 16½.

HIGH'S THIRD FLOOR

Skirts--Sweaters

How Thrilled
You'll Be
With the Choice!

$1.98
each

A sweater AND skirt's the thing! Choose from this collection that tingles with smartness.

SWEATERS—huge, puffy sleeves, high or surplice necks. Pastels, white—hi-shades. Sizes 34 to 40. SKIRTS—flannels, wool crepes, basket weaves. Sizes 26 to 32.

HIGH'S THIRD FLOOR

THE CONSTITUTION

CLARK HOWELL
Editor and General Manager
Clark Howell Jr., Business Manager.

Entered at the Postoffice at Atlanta as second-class mail matter.

Telephone Walnut 6585

Subscription Rates
By Carrier or Mail
Daily, 1 wk. $1.00, 1 mo. $2.50, 3 mos. $7.50, 6 mos. $12.50, 1 yr. $22.50
Single Copies—Daily, 5c; Sunday, 10c

RELY SMITH COMPANY, national newspaper publishers, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, Atlanta.
ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 4, 1933.

THE CONSTITUTION is on sale in New York city by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had from the New York Herald Tribune and from the New York Times building corner.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town letter carriers, dealers or agents. Receipts are not returned. Subscriptions are not guaranteed. The publisher is not responsible for subscription payments until received at office of publication.

Member of The Associated Press
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not credited to it, and also the local news published herein.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 4, 1933.

NO REASON FOR APPREHENSION.

The basic facts of the banking situation in Georgia are such as to assure the people of the state against any apprehension over the declaration of a three-day banking moratorium by Governor Talmadge.

Especially is this true in Atlanta. The banks of this city are as sound as those in any city of comparative size in the world.

Every dollar deposited in an Atlanta bank is as good as gold.

This being true, the natural inquiry arises as to why it is necessary for the governor to declare a moratorium.

The answer is simple. Such moratoria or withdrawal restrictions now exist in 36 states. With no banking facilities whatsoever in some of these states, and greatly restricted facilities in others, checks and drafts have gone out in huge numbers to the states in which moratoria have not been declared.

Because of the wide-reaching influence of the outstanding financial institutions of Atlanta, and because the Federal Reserve bank for this district is located in this city, these demands for money have been concentrated on the banks of Georgia.

Currency was being drawn out of Georgia at an alarming rate, and it was to put an end to this draining of the state's currency resources that Governor Talmadge decided upon a moratorium.

Thus it is seen that the governor's action is not caused by any need of protection by the banks of the state, but to protect the state's currency resources.

As far as the banks of Atlanta are concerned, if every depositor's dollar were to be drawn out they would still be in a highly liquid condition.

So the people of Atlanta need have no apprehension over a moratorium decided upon solely for the purpose of protecting the state from being drained of its currency resources by demands from outside.

A POPULAR APPOINTMENT.

General approval is expressed at President-elect Roosevelt's selection of Representative Lewis Douglas, of Arizona, as director of the budget.

The Washington Post comments that the appointment "takes on special significance because of the tasks that have been assigned to him," and believes that he is "precisely the type of man needed to head the bureau of the budget during this difficult period."

Another republican newspaper, the Philadelphia Public Ledger, points out that Representative Douglas during his service in the house has made "a name for conspicuous devotion to the public interest, with special reference to the subject in which the taxpayers are most keenly interested, rigid economy."

It is significant of the flexibility of service of the cabinet which has been named by President-elect Roosevelt that Daniel C. Roper, chosen for secretary of commerce, has been working for several weeks with Representative Douglas on a plan for governmental reorganization contemplated under the new powers granted to the incoming administration.

Senator Hull, the new secretary of state, is amply familiar with the ins and outs of diplomacy, but is chiefly noted for his study of finance, taxation and tariff matters. Senator Swanson, who will be secretary of the navy, is qualified from his long experience in foreign af-airs to ably advise the secretary of state. William H. Woodin, the new secretary of the treasury, will receive the benefit of Senator Hull's sound advice on finance and at the same time his long experience as an industrialist will enable him to be of assistance to Mr. Roper as secretary of commerce.

It is outstandingly evident that the dominant factor in influencing the selection of President-elect Roosevelt's appointees so far has been the necessity for expert handling of the economic situation and the need for economy in government.

The record of the new director of the budget assures that he will go about his duties with directness and courage—a courage well demonstrated in his advocacy on the floor of the house of the dynamited propositions to reduce the pension rolls and to enact a sales tax.

Plenty of fireworks will be expected from Mr. Douglas' recommendations for governmental economy, but that they will be efficiently arrived at and bravely defended is a foregone conclusion.

THE URGENT NEED AT ALTO.

The work of none of the state's eleemosynary institutions is more vitally necessary to the public health than that of the sanatorium at Alto.

None of the institutions has been more efficiently and economically operated. It has remained strictly within its appropriations and has reduced its expenses by producing much of the food necessary for the care of its patients.

And yet this splendid institution, housed in a modern building and with a staff of outstanding experts, is able to care for less than half of those seeking treatment, which, in many instances, would mean the saving of life, because of lack of adequate support.

The institution is now caring for 290 patients and has 300 on the waiting list. In addition, a single unit maintained by the state department of public health and the sanatorium has discovered 2,019 cases of active tuberculosis in the state and 1,479 persons whose condition is not beyond question. These have been placed under the care of their own physicians for treatment and many will be cured in their own homes, but hundreds will face death unless eventually they can be admitted at Alto.

Last year the appropriation for the sanatorium was reduced $10,000 and only 88 1/2 per cent of the appropriation received. Notwithstanding the institution met all of its obligations, through the reduction of the per capita daily cost from $2.41 in 1929 to $1.06 in 1932. Salaries of the staff and other employees were voluntarily reduced, and the food bill was cut by the production of milk, eggs, poultry, beef, pork and vegetables and all other expenses cut to the bone.

The institution will have room for 80 more beds next year, but under the present appropriation will be unable to care for additional patients.

Tuberculosis is one of the state's most expensive maladies. It increases poverty more than any other half dozen diseases, and losses from its ravages can be eliminated if the plans outlined by the state department of health and the sanatorium can be materialized.

The health department is asking for funds to establish an additional clinic service, which will be essentially one of prevention, and the sanatorium is seeking increased funds so that it may handle the demands upon it.

Regardless of our obligation for the care of afflicted members of our citizenship, the state can make no sounder investment, figured in dollars and cents, than to give those who are waging war against the great white plague sufficient money for them to reduce the staggering toll of deaths from tuberculosis each year.

There is also some sentiment in favor of larger receptacles at the 19th hole.

The income tax and the sales tax make a perfect team. They get it coming in and going out.

Still, when the panhandler describes that awful empty feeling, he may be thinking of his gas tank.

Delegates to the London economic conference will go over in American ships. And come home in barrels.

A great publicist is one who keeps the nation informed about everything, including the weather in Florida or California.

"What," asks a subscriber, "does debt trading mean?" Well, Europe has a debt; there will be a trade; and presto! we'll have it.

People of India are quick to learn America's modern farm methods. Of course, they already knew how to sign a mortgage.

If the farmers stop foreclosing, nobody will lend money on farm land hereafter, and the poor farmer won't have a mortgage on his name.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Jugo-Slavia Totters.

The king of Jugo-Slavia, Alexander, appears to be in danger of his life. All the political parties in his realm have turned against him. It is quite well possible that the country is being swept by a revolution before these lines are published.

Not long ago, while traveling through old Serbia, a dignified old man entered the compartment in which I sat. He turned out to be a Slovene professor. We talked together for an entire day—in whispers. The story I heard was alarming. I could scarcely believe my own ears. But all what this man told me then has subsequently been amply confirmed by independent observers. King Alexander is the last remaining ruler by terror. Having in his realm three distinct nations, Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, he tried to weld them into one nation, the Jugo-Slav. When this appeared impossible and many of his counselors advised him to change the regime into a federated monarchy, he not only refused, but he attempted to drag and regiment the peoples into cohesion.

This policy has now failed. Of course, he may continue for a time, mainly by showing the iron heel and the mailed fist, but even the army is said to be turning against him. In fact, it is his last remaining hope of work. That Alexander foresaw the collapse of his throne and the splitting away of the various national ingredients of his kingdom, was evidenced a few months ago by his seizure of 50,000,000 francs, two million dollars, of his personal fortune, to French banks.

For the moment the king is trying to escape the tide of disaffection and unrest by arming the leaders of the hostile parties. This has had for result the growth of a secret organization, known as the White Hand, which is composed chiefly of army officers. The curious fact is that the king's father, King Peter Karageorgevich, was himself once a member of this White Hand organization. Peter, in fact, stood at its head when he overthrew another Alexander and his wife, Queen Draga, and then placed the self-made Peter on the throne.

(Copyright, 1933, for The Constitution.)

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

FOOD AND THE ARTERIES.

Many philosophers, ancient and modern, have made what sophomoric and wisecrack statements concerning the influence of diet on health and longevity. At first impact some of these sage sayings seem impressive, but eventually somehow one classifies them under the heading of poetry rather than truth. Dr. Osler himself got off a few of these wisecracks and used effectively in his famous "doctors' talk" quotations of others from ancient classics.

Dr. Osler died before the dawn of the science of nutrition. We must keep that fact in mind, while we consider his teaching, for he was the greatest medical teacher we have ever had. Speaking of the causation of chronic Bright's disease (chronic nephritis, chronic inflammation of the kidneys), which is generally associated with arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and myocarditis (slow heart muscle impairment), Osler said:

"Alcohol plays an important part particularly in conjunction with other factors. Among the better classes in America chronic Bright's disease is very common, and, I believe, caused more frequently by overeating than by excess in alcohol."

"Speaking of the treatment of chronic Bright's disease Dr. Osler said:

"Alcohol should be strictly prohibited. Tea and coffee are allowable. The diet should be light and nourishing (sic), and the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water."

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Somewhere else in his writings (I cannot find it at the moment) Osler quotes some old master to the effect that the platter kills more than the sword.

That advice that the diet should be light and nourishing is like advising that drinking water should be clear and light, and that the patient should be warned not to eat excessively, and not to take meat more than once a day. The patient should keep the urinary secretion free by drinking daily a definite amount of either distilled water or some pleasant mineral water.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise:

Eavesdropping without intention last night, I heard one of your acquaintances, a college graduate, declare with some heat that she wouldn't dream of marrying "one of these common boys around here."

Maybe it was a case of sour grapes. And maybe the remark affected your neck as it did mine.

In any case, I wish to go on record with the statement that a young snob who hasn't anything to be snobbish about is a total loss to civilization. And if I had the slightest fear that college training would affect you that way, I'd jerk you out next week to preserve your original endowment of common sense.

Any hick-town girl who is subject to swell-head-and who is not!—faces grave dangers when the old folks mortgage the house and send her to college.

She develops tastes and ideals that don't match the family pocketbook. And if she goes back to her native village to end her days, she may find herself between the devil and the deep blue sea.

She may have to sit around for forty years, getting a little more sour with each change of the moon, or else marry a man who can't recognize a single Greek letter, and live in bitterness all her days because he is "beneath her."

If that is her fate, she deserves it for want of sense.

It is a very shallow brain that develops scorn of "common" boys because they have neither an M. A. nor a 12-cylinder roadster.

Some of the dumbest youths I ever knew had somehow squeezed through college, and the most hopelessly worthless ones I ever knew were the spoiled progeny of rich dads.

You can't judge a youngster by the college degree or the spending money he has at 20.

One great nation is ruled by a common unskilled laborer, one by a brick mason, one by a paperhanger—and your own by a "common" engineer.

It's the man that counts—not his start or his dad's money or his decorations.

The wisest girls are those who ask nothing but love, character, brains and ambition when they decide to say "yes."

(Copyright, 1933, for The Constitution.)

JEHO CITY'S FALL EXPECTED HOURLY

Continued from First Page.

completely overrun by the army of Japan.

Foreign observers here expressed the belief that after the fall of Jehol city the Japanese would continue below the Great Wall of China and seize Peking in 50 miles south of the border of Jehol province.

Jehol Reported in Mutiny. Official military and press dispatches coming from the front in Jehol reported the complete collapse of the Chinese defense in Jehol. These messages told of troops retreating and streaming toward the rear and of their leaders taking flight.

The Japanese asserted that in Jehol city the Chinese troops had mutinied and that the capital was in chaos. General Chang Yeh-shan, governor of Jehol and director of its vast opium trade, is missing. Chang Tso-shiang and Wan Fulin, who were sent to Jehol to take charge of the defense, have taken flight.

The Japanese said that the Chinese troops had been ordered to retreat and that the Japanese were now in possession of the city.

Information that the defense forces were pouring through Jehol city, many of them heading for the rear, through the Great Wall into China proper, was brought back by two Japanese airmen who made a scouting trip over the capital.

General Kawahara's brigade marched into Pingchuan this morning they were only 50 miles from Jehol city. The capture of Pingchuan would mean the fall of the last important town south of the capital itself.

In addition to the Kawahara brigade, the Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

The Japanese have captured the city of Pingchuan, which is 92 miles from Jehol city.

RECEIVED NAMED FOR LEAS PAPER

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 3.—

—Lit J. Pardue, of Ashland City, Tenn., tonight was appointed by United States District Judge John J. Gore as receiver for the Tennessee Publishing Company, publishers of the Nashville Tennessean and Evening Tennessean. The action was taken on petition of G. O. Carpenter, receiver for the Holston National Bank, of Knoxville. Colonel Luke Lea is president of the publishing company.

Mr. Pardue was an editor of the Tennessee papers from 1918 until 1930.

Colonel Lea, who is in Clarksville, when informed by telephone of the receivership, said:

"Then Mr. Pardue is in charge." He made no other comment.

The petition for appointment of a receiver set out that the publishing company was indebted to the Holston National bank to the extent of more than $100,000 and that efforts to collect the debt had failed.

The petition declared that the bank held promissory notes, dated October 12, 1930, for $44,000 on which the unpaid principal now amounts to $37,500 and one date (October 2, 1930) for $80,000 on which the unpaid principal is $69,570.

Collateral securing the notes, the petition continued, consisted of bonds of the publishing company and of other real estate companies owned by Colonel Lea. The bonds, except for those of the publishing company, were described as "practically worthless and without value."

Financial statements furnished the plaintiff by the defendant company, the petition declared, showed the liabilities of the publishing firm amounted approximately to $1,500,000 and that its physical assets as of October 1, 1932, were approximately $337,000, but have depreciated so that their value is now "much less."

Unable to Meet Expenses. The petition averred that the company had "no assets in addition to those mentioned above except its goodwill and its Associated Press franchise."

The financial condition of the company, the petition declared, was such that it was unable to meet current operating expenses, and that it had operated at a loss since 1932.

Calling attention to the absence from Nashville of Colonel Luke Lea and his son, Luke Lea Jr., vice president of the publishing company, the petition declared that they had neglected their efforts to resist removal to North Carolina where they are under conviction of bank law violations, and that they had neglected the affairs of the publishing company to such an extent that it is "drifting" in a "hopeless financial condition."

The plaintiff set out that he was informed that North Carolina officers are now in Tennessee with the intent to remove the company to that state and that they will be arrested within the next few days.

Differences between Senator Walter A. Sims, of Atlanta, and members of the Fulton delegation in the house were widened Friday when the senate approved the Sims amendment including pay cuts for many county officers in a bill affecting salaries of superior court judges.

Senator Sims' amendment to the Fulton delegation bill would limit salaries of all county officers to $5,000 a year, and would require that the county commissioners should fix salaries of county officers and employees, but said that pay of the superior court judges and of the county commissioners should be the same as that of the superior court judges, $9,000, of which the county pays $4,000 and the state $5,000.

The Fulton representatives pointed out that the salaries of the judges now is fixed by law at $12,000 per year, and that they took voluntary cuts reducing the county salary to $9,000. The effect of the bill would be to fix the salaries at $9,000 instead of $12,000, it was said. The measure provides for repeal of the law fixing by law the salaries of the tax collector, tax receiver, and lesser county officials, and would vest this power in the county commission.

SIMMONS SCORED IN JURY'S REPORT

Office "Inefficient, Careless," Charge; Dismissal of Lemon Is Urged.

Scoring irregularities in the handling of trust funds and the practice of cashing personal checks—a number of which were said to have been made to cover up a shortage in trust funds—were the main points in the report of the Fulton county grand jury, filed Friday, found that the office of Clerk of Court J. W. Simmons "has been conducted in a careless and irregular manner" and recommended the severe censure of Simmons and the dismissal of E. W. Lemon, assistant clerk.

"Although we gained some knowledge of the operations of the office as convinced us of improper and 'irregular conduct,' the grand jurors reported, 'we could not find adequate evidence which would, in our opinion, furnish proof to justify a conviction on any indictment that could be drawn under the present statutes governing the conduct of this office.'"

The report was filed Friday afternoon with Judge Virgil B. Moore, who discharged the jury and the clerk of the court. Along with the report, the grand jury returned 13 true bills and one no bill. Edward R. Austin was foreman of the body and J. H. Moore secretary.

Court Simplification Urged.

Besides the arraignment of Simmons and Lemon, the grand jury recommended:

1. Passage of legislation by the general assembly to simplify practice and reduce the expense of operating the courts.
2. The breaking up of "an organized gang of racketeers" operating in this city and county by law enforcing agencies and the imposition of chain gang sentences on those convicted.
3. That the chief of police instruct all persons who have located property in pawn shops that pawn brokers have no right to retain stolen goods, or require any sum of money to be paid by the owner for recovery thereof.
4. For the mayor and city council of Atlanta to provide for the closing of all questionable lunch stands and other places that operate after midnight.
5. Quarantine of whooping cough and measles and other contagious diseases by the city of Atlanta.
6. Reduction in operating expenses of the county and consolidation of offices wherever practicable.

Boykin, Sturdivant Praised.

Both Solicitor-General John A. Boykin and Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant are commended by the grand jurors.

Pointing out that Simmons was responsible for a shortage of $2,245 in trust funds, the grand jurors said that Simmons "has been guilty of a gross misappropriation of the funds of the court and of the state and of the funds of the office at Lemon's home the day before restitution."

"We found," the report explained, "that several hundred dollars were required to balance the trust fund account was made up of interest paid by the bank on such trust funds, which was claimed by the state as its property. We do not think Mr. Simmons has any right to such interest and recommend that the commissioners bring suit to recover the same."

Made Good From Note.

Another portion of the shortage was made good, the report stated, out of proceeds of a note "to an outside party signed by Mr. Simmons and indorsed by a number of members of the office force."

"After mature consideration," the report continued, "we do not find that either Mr. Simmons or Mr. Lemon has demonstrated qualifications for holding such office or position of trust. In our opinion Mr. Simmons and his assistant, Mr. Lemon, should be severely censured for the conduct of the office and manipulation of the trust funds. We recommend that the suspension of E. W. Lemon be converted into a dismissal."

In reference to the cashing of checks the presentments assert that a number of checks were cashed with county money for members in the office as well as for others and in some instances held for long periods of time. Checks of office employees also were used in raising money to pay off part of the shortage, the presentments say, and some of these checks were "admittedly worthless," but "were finally made good." One of these checks, says the presentments, "was drawn on a bank in which the signer had no account."

The grand jury also recommended that the person designated by the judges to handle the trust funds be placed under a larger bond and that "under no circumstances shall any of the county funds in the clerk's office or any of the trust funds in his hands be used to cash checks of any employees in his office or of anyone else."

The report further recommended that "some one individual only should be designated by the clerk to handle all cash funds received as property of the county when paid into the cash register."

Lottery War Asked.

Touthing on the lottery situation, the report said:

"This unlawful business has grown to great proportion, is enriching the

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

Vets Ask Maryland To Kill Aid Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 3.—The Annapolis post of Veterans of Foreign Wars announced today a resolution has been adopted, asking Governor Albert C. Ritchie to remove from his budget the $75,000 given annually by Maryland for veterans' aid.

The post resolution, which was forwarded to state officials of the organization, said "state aid for veterans is a discrimination against the needy people of the state."

underworld and making them powerful. Unless suppressed it will become a strong and menacing criminal organization that will seriously affect the morals and well being of our country. The amount taken from the public by these organized lotteries is enormous. Every effort should be exerted and no reasonable expense should be refused to break up this racket."

New Bankruptcy Bill Is Signed by Hoover

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—President Hoover today signed the bankruptcy bill, intended to provide relief for individuals, farmers and railroad carriers from debt.

Strongly advocated by Mr. Hoover, the measure would set up machinery by which individual debtors might obtain an extension of time, or a reduction of their debts by a cash settlement.

It would be required that a majority of the creditors, both in number and in value, assent to the petition to a federal court to take that individual case under its protection.

Under the farm provision, farmers could proceed either as individuals or under a clause providing that 14 other farmers in the same county could band together and would petition the court for protection.

Official foreign trade figures just issued here for the whole year show that this group represented the second largest item of exports to the United States in point of value, and the largest in terms of volume.

American lumber interests, also hit by the depression, likewise were customers here for lumber.

Exports of these materials to the United States increased during 1932 over those of the previous year, although trade as a whole between the two countries declined sharply. The balance of trade continued in America's favor in a much smaller ratio.

Louderback Trial Set for December

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—For the eleventh time in the history of the United States, the next opening day of the next congress will sit as a solemn court of impeachment.

The decision to begin at 2 o'clock on that day the trial of Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of California, was reached by the senate today after the rare and impressive ceremony of receiving from the house of representatives formal articles of impeachment.

By a vote of 133 to 142 the house on February 24 voted impeachment charges against Louderback on the ground he had appointed "incompetent receivers." Under the constitution the senate sits in judgment upon the case.

Because of the nearness of adjournment of the present session, the senate unanimously agreed on a motion of Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, chairman of the judiciary committee, to postpone the trial until the next congress. Ordinarily, Norris said, the trial would begin at 1 p. m. tomorrow but the 72nd congress terminates at noon.

14 BUS LINES WILL USE CARNEGIE WAY DEPOT

Effective Friday, 14 bus lines operating out of Atlanta will use the Union Bus Terminal on Carnegie way as the result of an agreement reached between Colonial Stage, South, Inc., and the Southeastern Greyhound Lines.

The lines are Southeastern Greyhound, Colonial Stage, Hood Coach Lines, Queen City Lines, Georgia Motor Lines, Pace Motor Lines, Southeast Motor Lines, Dallas Motor Lines, New York Motor Lines, Blue Line, Service Stages Line and Blue Ridge Bus Line. No changes in personnel have been effected.

VET EXPENSE PROBE CONTINUED FOR MONTH

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—The senate today voted to continue the joint congressional committee for investigating veterans' expenditures until 30 days after the meeting of the seventy-third congress.

The committee during the present session has heard numerous witnesses for and against the continuance of present expenditures for war veterans, but has not yet reported.

UNITED UTILITIES IN RECEIVERSHIP

WILMINGTON, Del., March 3.—(AP)—Chancellor Joseph D. Wolcott today appointed Harry C. Mahaffy Jr., of Wilmington, and Ralph J. Ritchie, of New York, receivers for the United American Utilities Company, a western holding company which has been declared insolvent. The company agreed to the receivership.

$60,000 BEQUEATHED TO TWO GEORGIA SCHOOLS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 3.—(AP)—Under the terms of the will of Miss Caroline A. Fox, filed for probate today, $50,000 each was bequeathed to Rollins College, of Winter Park, Fla., and Berry schools, of Mount Berry, Ga.

The Humdon school of Georgia was willed $10,000.

BACHMAN CREDENTIALS PRESENTED TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Credentials of Nathan L. Bachman, appointed United States senator to succeed Cordell Hull, secretary of state-designate, were formally presented in the senate today by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee. Bachman accompanied him to the floor and was introduced to various members.

Garner To Get Gavel From Calhoun's Home

ANDERSON, S. C., March 3.—(AP)—Vice President-elect Garner, who tomorrow will occupy a position John C. Calhoun held from 1825 to 1833, is going to have a gavel made of timber taken from the South Carolina statesman's home.

The gavel will be a reproduction of one used by Calhoun when he served two terms as seventh vice president and will be the gift of Clemson College.

Today Dr. E. W. Sikes, president of the college, said the gavel would be sent for Mr. Garner to use at the opening session of congress.

Smiles Cameraman to Cover Atlanta and Suburbs Today In Quest of Happy Faces for Constitution-Rialto Contest

Six more "smiles" which are entered in the contest sponsored by The Constitution and the Rialto theater to find the brightest smile in Atlanta. Winners of first and second places will receive cash awards, and others will receive theater tickets. From left to right, the smiles above belong to Miss Thelma Gray, of 547 East Avenue, N. E.; Mrs. Bertha Summers, 960 Hemphill avenue; Mrs. Eunice McMillan, known to radio fans as Dolly Jernagin, of 453 Parkway drive; Miss Hortense Brown, 316 Candler street, N. E.; Miss Mary Bess Jackson, 1034 Oak street, S. W., and Miss Rado Ayers, 1227 Holderness street.

will receive two tickets each by bringing a clipping of the pictures for identification. Tickets may be obtained at either the theater or at The Constitution offices.

The contest, sponsored in connection with the opening of the Wheeler and Woolsey film has attracted unusual attention. During the next several days other broad smiles will be reproduced in this newspaper.

Wheeler and Woolsey are famous as one of the best comic teams in films and theater executives say the current attraction, starting today, is their jest. "So This Is Africa" is a burlesque of other films made in the dark continent and produces situations which bring gales of laughter.

All who wish to participate in the contest should keep a wary eye out for the Smiles cameraman and when his instrument is focused, smile brightly—for it may win $10.

Specific Cancer Test Reported Discovered by Noted Scientist

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE. NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP)—The finding of just one of the "long hoped-for" specific tests for cancer was reported tonight by James Ewing, M. D., one of the foremost cancer scientists, at the annual meeting of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

He warned listeners that "search for the cause of cancer has failed." But on the other hand he said that "practical research directed to the cancer patient is making rapid, substantial and effective progress." He summarized the findings of cancer workers of the entire world.

One of these is discovery that sex gland cancers reveal their 1 sense in advance by producing a pituitary gland hormone. The pituitary is in the head, but its hormones control sex glands to a large extent. Apparently the sex gland cancer sets up extra production of hormones on its own account. Using the medical term "tumor" for cancer Dr. Ewing said:

"Thyroid tumors secrete iodothyron, liver tumors make bile, adrenal tumors secrete very peculiar effects on the secondary sex characters and on renal function, and the sex gland tumors produce large amounts of pituitary hormone prolactin A."

"One investigator finds prolactin A in varying quantities in all cases of sex gland tumors, and has elaborated a method by which he is able to determine the presence of such tumors, to estimate the efficiency of treatment, and recognize recurrences before clinical symptoms are detected, and finally to predict the structural type of the tumor."

"We have thus the long hoped-for specific test for cancer, but applicable to only one group of tumors, those of the sex cells."

The most effective means of fighting cancer Dr. Ewing held is "dissemination of knowledge of cancer in medical profession," to this source he attributed "the practical results of the past 25 years."

And "inestimable" he said is the value of spreading "knowledge of cancer among the laity" as the American Society for the Control of Cancer does. The society's managing director, Dr. C. C. Little, reported that in 1932, 53 American communities initiated control programs compared with 38 the year before. These alone "offer about one quarter of the country's population."

Eight Are Convicted For Holding Peddler

CLEARFIELD, Pa., March 3.—(AP)—Johnstown (Pa.) private detective, and seven other defendants, were today convicted of abducting a New Jersey fish peddler and holding him captive as a suspect in the Lindbergh kidnapping case.

John J. Devine, the detective, charged with bringing Garrett Schenck from his Hopewell (N. J.) home to a mountain cabin near Dubois, Pa., and Roy Cummings, Frank Shugart and Avery Connors, were convicted of kidnapping and conspiracy to kidnap.

They were charged with the other defendants, Reuben Rakestraw, Edward Benshoff, Paul Cupp and Charles Horner, who were convicted of conspiracy to kidnap, filed application for a new trial.

Devine testified during the trial that he was working as a free agent in the case, believing he could solve the Lindbergh mystery.

The defense contended that Schenck, fearing public sentiment in Hopewell, was anxious to leave New Jersey. Attorneys for the eight stated that the man came willingly and that he was free to leave the cabin at all times.

ZANGARA UNMOVED BY SUFFERING OF HIS VICTIMS

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—(AP)—"How long he got well asked Giuseppe Zangara, the assassin, from the bars of his jail cell today when told that Mayor Anton Cermak still was critically ill from the wound inflicted by his attempt to kill President-elect Roosevelt.

"I no intend to shoot him," said Zangara when visited today by Floyd T. Kenlay, son-in-law of Cermak, and W. W. Woods, local democrat.

Kenlay said the little Italian expressed no regret for his attempt at assassination.

"If you were not in this jail, what would you do?" Kenlay asked. Zangara replied that he would make another attempt to shoot the president-elect.

"I no like presidents," he said. "I think presidents worse than kings."

7 NEGROES WILL GET HEARING ON VENUE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 3.—(AP)—Tentative decision to hold trials of the seven negroes in the Scottsboro attack case in Birmingham was indicated here today by reports that the state and defense counsel have reached an agreement on a venue change.

Judge A. E. Hawkins will hear petitions for the venue shift at Fort Payne, Ala., Monday.

3 NEGROES EXECUTED AT COLUMBIA PRISON

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 3.—(AP)—Three negroes were electrocuted at the state penitentiary here today. They were Will Saunders, who said he was only 14, for the murder of a white woman; and James Jones and James Arthur Dicks, cousins, for the murder of a farmer.

Legislature Surprises Self in Bill's Passage

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 3.—(AP)—Members of the Alabama house of representatives expressed apparent surprise today when informed they had passed the Sanderson bill legalizing horse racing and pari-mutuel betting in the city of Montgomery by a vote of 75 to 0 two weeks ago. The mystery came to light when the bill appeared on the senate calendar. No one professed to know how the bill came to be passed—especially by such a majority.

Dry Law Forces LAUNCH CAMPAIGN IN FULTON COUNTY

Plans for an aggressive campaign in every ward and militia district to carry Fulton county for the retention of prohibition, in the event of an election on the issue, were mapped at an organization meeting Friday night of the Fulton county branch of the Consolidated Forces Opposed to the repeal of the 18th Amendment. The meeting was held at the Piedmont hotel.

John W. Crenshaw was named chairman of the county group and other officers are: L. Gloer Hailey, vice president; Mrs. Payce Dodgen, secretary; and Vernon Yost, treasurer. "This organization," Crenshaw said, "by no means concedes that the people of Fulton county favor the repeal of the 18th amendment and it expects to put up a vigorous fight to keep this county in the dry column."

B. JOSEPH MARTIN, 48, DROPS DEAD ON STREET

A man identified as B. Joseph Martin, about 48, of 1447 Pelham street, dropped dead Friday afternoon while walking along Ashby street, near Bankhead avenue. His death was apparently caused by a heart attack. A Grady hospital ambulance was called by passers-by when Mr. Martin was stricken but he was dead before it arrived. The body was taken to the establishment of Awtry & Lowndes, who will announce funeral arrangements.

Martin is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Martin; a son, R. J. Martin Jr.; two brothers, Frank Martin, of Augusta, and Otha Martin, of Natchez, Miss., and three stepchildren, Mrs. Willie Mae Wallace and George and Harry Dillard, of Atlanta.

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta.

Atlanta has confidence in Atlanta's Banks.

Atlanta Always Ahead!

Southeastern Bonded Warehouses

ATLANTA LEADS!

MALONE FACES GIANTS TODAY IN FIRST GAME

Exhibition Season Opens on Coast; Cronin Praises Staff.

AVAILON, SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., March 3.—(P)—Manager Charles Cronin, of the Chicago Cubs, announced today that Malone, Leroy Herman and Roy Henshaw will hurl in the exhibition game tomorrow and Sunday with the New York Giants.

Henshaw's appearance will be his first in professional baseball. He was a star southpaw hurler with the University of Chicago last year.

SENATORS.
BLOXI, Miss., March 3.—(P)—Enthusiasm for the accomplishments of his southpaw twirlers was expressed today by Joe Cronin, youth-leader of the Washington Senators, as he watched them parade their achievements.

"I'll match the left-hand side of the mound department of the Nationals against any in the American league," was his vehement opinion.

"With the exception of Bob Grove, of the Athletics, and Lefty Gomez, of the Yankees, Whitehill and Stewart are the de luxe work horses of the league," he continued.

RED SOX.
SARASOTA, Fla., March 3.—(P)—The Boston Red Sox suffered their first casualty of the 1933 campaign today when Arthur (Babe) Mahoney, Taunton, Mass., recruit, stuck one of his pitching fingers in the way of a line drive.

The top joint was dislocated, but Manager Marty McManus straightened the digit with a few deft twists and eases Mahoney for the remainder of the day.

McManus put all his battery squad through a stiff hour's workout.

BRUINS.
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3.—(P)—Manager Bill McKee today put his pitchers and catchers, with the exception of the unburned "Shan," Hagen, through two long workouts under a blazing Florida sun.

Several of the hurlers felt the strain and the demands on Trainer Jimmy Neary were heavy. It was noticed that Ed Brandt and Bobby Brown required a lot of his attention after they exercised their pitching muscles. Hagen, according to McKee, would not be ready for action until Monday.

ATHLETICS.
FORT MYERS, Fla., March 3.—(P)—Confidence in the Philadelphia Athletics' chances for the pennant race was expressed today by Captain Ed "Big" Miller as he watched his charges—in the absence of Connie Mack—go through their paces for the third day.

Leader of the camp, Connie Mack is at the bedside of his ill daughter in Asheville, N. C. Miller said he would leave the camp today as good as last year's and declared the club was going to be much stronger in the pitching division.

TIGERS.
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 3.—(P)—Victor Sorrell, veteran Detroit pitcher, was taken to hospital last night after an X-ray examination of injuries caused when a bat in the hands of catcher Eugene DeSautels struck him across the nose.

Henry Greenberg, Beaumont, joined the Tigers today after Manager Harris set the date of his arrival ahead in order to experiment with the youngsters' adaptability to the third base position. Greenberg formerly has played first base exclusively.

GIANTS.
LOS ANGELES, March 3.—(P)—Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants, gave his baseball team a comparatively light workout today with his thoughts on the first exhibition games with Chicago at Avalon, Catalina island, tomorrow and Sunday.

All hands, including Terry, took a turn at the newly installed sliding pit. Nobody hit it any harder than Travis Jackson, who in most of last season with a knee injury sustained in sliding into second.

PHILLIES.
WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 3.—(P)—Manager Burt Shotton today was forced to "lay down the law" to his Phillies to curb the enthusiasm of the players for spring training.

Mers for spring training. First Baseman Don Hurst, the one announced holdout—turned out on the diamond an hour before schedule, and by the time Shotton arrived were racing around the turf.

"I'm not going to have the boys get sore arms by working too early in the day," said Shotton.

DODGERS.
MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—(P)—Reports gained in the Brooklyn Dodgers' training camp today that Manager Max Carey is seeking to acquire Pitcher Sylvester Johnson, recently shipped by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Columbus club of the American association.

Pitcher Ray Bengt, who apparently was "lost" yesterday, notified club officials he was en route from his Huntsville (Texas) home and would arrive today.

Georgia Wins Swimming Meet

ATHENS, Ga., March 3.—The University of Georgia's swimming team defeated Furman University handsily here today, 65 to 22.

The Purple swimmers from South Carolina failed to finish either first or second in any of the races except for one second place in the 220-yard free style. The only Furman first place was in the fancy diving contest.

Summary:
400-Yard Relay—Won by Georgia (Jones, Jefferson, H. Hodgson, Maxwell). Time, 4:23.1.
200-Yard Breaststroke—Hodgeson, Georgia, first, 2:35.
100-Yard Freestyle—Hodgeson, Georgia, first, 1:45.
100-Yard Backstroke—Hodgeson, Georgia, first, 2:03.
40-Yard Freestyle—Hodgeson, Georgia, first, 1:15.
40-Yard Backstroke—Hodgeson, Georgia, first, 1:30.
Fancy Diving—Sacco, Furman, 6.31.
100-Yard Freestyle—Hodgeson, Georgia, first, 1:45.
100-Yard Backstroke—Hodgeson, Georgia, first, 2:03.
Fancy Diving—Sacco, Furman, 6.31.
100-Yard Freestyle—Hodgeson, Georgia, first, 1:45.
100-Yard Backstroke—Hodgeson, Georgia, first, 2:03.
Fancy Diving—Sacco, Furman, 6.31.

WOMEN'S PLAY TO END TODAY
ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 3.—(P)—England and America will be represented in the Florida East Coast women's golf championship tomorrow when Kathleen Garman, British sharpshooter, and Frances Williams, DeLeon Springs, Fla., meet in the 18-hole final.

Miss Garman, the tournament medalist, who yesterday eliminated the doughty Diana Fishwick, English closed and French open champion, to advance to the semi-final, came back today and trounced Barbara Pym, the only other remaining English entry, 1 up.

Miss Williams, recent winner of the south Atlantic tournament at Ormond Beach, stroked her way to the finals by defeating Frances Hadfield, Milwaukee, 3 and 1, after she had forced out Laurence Orcutt, defending champion, yesterday.

Although Miss Garman shot a brilliant 40-44-84 to top Miss Pym's 40-44-85 by one stroke, she was forced to enter her game to the limit to emerge with a one-hole victory after being two down and three to go.

Both Britishers played exceptionally good golf on the out-going nine, where Miss Pym's accurate putting gave her a margin of 1 up, as she sank a putt for a birdie 2. She increased her lead to 2 up on the eleventh, held it through the fifteenth and then lost the three holes in regulation, came back to 1 up on the sixteenth.

Miss Williams took the lead over Miss Hadfield on the second hole, led it to 3 on the fourth, and finished the first nine 2 up. The Milwaukee player made a determined comeback attempt, but it was cut short by a sudden change in the wind, so that she was unable to play the 10th, 11th and 12th holes.

Leader of the camp, Connie Mack is at the bedside of his ill daughter in Asheville, N. C. Miller said he would leave the camp today as good as last year's and declared the club was going to be much stronger in the pitching division.

PIRATES.
PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 3.—(P)—Two of the Pittsburgh Pirates' hole finds, "Pie" Traynor, third sacker, and Lloyd Waner, center fielder, turned up today with lame legs. The boys went at it too briskly yesterday in their first practice.

Manager George Gibson cut down the training routine of the two, but expressed belief they would be all right in a day or so.

INDIANS.
NEW ORLEANS, March 3.—(P)—Glenn Myatt, veteran catcher for the Cleveland Indians, reported for training today and raised the number of athletes now in camp to 14.

Harley Boss, rookie first base star, is expected Monday when the rest of the team will arrive in New Orleans. Ferrell and Hudlin, the only unsigned players to worry the management.

WHITE SOX.
PASADENA, Cal., March 3.—(P)—More trouble tonight upset the Chicago White Sox practice today and Manager Lew Fournier called off infield drill in favor of batting activities.

Jimmy Dykes had two teeth extracted and asked for the day off. With Dykes unavailable for third base, infield drill was spoiled. Extraction of teeth has kept Al Simmons, another member of the team, out of action.

REDS.
TAMPA, Fla., March 3.—(P)—Donnie Bush indicated today that he may shift Joe Morrissey to third base for the Cincinnati Reds when the baseball season opens, to round out an infield already made up of Jim Bottomley at first, George Grantham at second and Leo Durocher at short.

Morrissey and Durocher, working with the battery men, played at their assigned posts during an infield drill today.

YANKEES.
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3.—(P)—Pitcher Lefty Gomez, the largest bridgegroom, reported at the New York Yankees training camp today, two days late, and an hour later was pitching to batters. However, Bill Dickey and Red Ruffing, holdout batters, and Pitcher Willy Moore are still missing.

Amnesia Victim Says She Is Atlantan

NORFOLK, Va., March 3.—(P)—A young white woman, an amnesia victim who came to the attention of police here yesterday when she was found wandering on the street, unable to remember her name, home, or how she got to Norfolk, tonight told a doctor at St. Vincent's hospital that she is sure her name is Diana Schuler and that she is from Atlanta, Ga. She could recall nothing of her past, however.

She is about 25 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs around 120 pounds and has sandy hair. Her features made police believe that she is of Scandinavian origin. When found she was wearing a green dress and blue coat trimmed with gray fur.

N. D. Baker's Brother Held in Fatal Crash

PETERSBURG, Va., March 3.—(P)—Major Frank H. Baker, a brother of Newton D. Baker, was under $500 bond here today to answer a technical charge of manslaughter in connection with the fatal injury of Charlie Lee, 64-year-old negro, in an automobile accident.

Police who had not completed their inquiry said Lee was walking at the side of the road, and stepped in front of the machine. He was struck by the fender and knocked down. An expert later testified that he had suffered a broken neck.

None of the occupants of the Baker machine was injured. Major Baker's wife and L. G. Giesse, of the United States treasury department, were passengers in the car.

The case will be called in police court Tuesday.

Emory Meets Furman Stars Today

Emory University's varsity and freshmen intercollegiate swimming teams will meet Furman University's team today at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the new pool at Emory.

Freshmen and freshmen will participate in the events indiscriminately, the program consisting of one meet.

In the first meet of the season last Saturday, Emory was defeated by Georgia's team, 53-31. Art Merrill, former city breaststroke champion, will be unable to compete in this meet, but John Thompson, breaststroke swimmer who was unable to participate last week, will be ready for Furman.

Emory's varsity squad consists of Johnny Alldredge, Levering Neely, Peter Haurat, Bradford McAdams, Henry Holleman, Jesse Grantham, Cater Myrick, Nolan Goodyear and Sam Belcher.

Jimmy London Beats Stecher

CHICAGO, March 3.—(P)—Jim London tonight successfully defended his claim to the world heavyweight wrestling championship by tossing Joe Stecher, the veteran Nebraska scissor artist, in a one-fall bout at the stadium before 16,800 spectators.

Jim weathered the scissor hold and at 59:09 of the tussle employed a body slam for the only fall. The show, under the aegis of the Chicago Athletic Operating Company, drew a gate of $29,529. London weighed 200, Stecher 222.

Auburn Pleased As Rog Kiley Wins

AUBURN, Ala., March 3.—(P)—Auburn friends of Roger Kiley, sports football coach at Alabama at Polytechnic Institute, received with pleasure tonight news that he had been elected an alderman from the thirty-second Chicago ward.

Kiley for the past three years, has been spending the fall seasons on the Plains, collaborating with Chet Wynne, head football coach, in the direction of the Auburn gridiron destinies. The rest of the year he spends in Chicago attending to a wide law practice.

At Auburn, Kiley has renewed his three-year contract as head coach, no announcement has been made as to whether Kiley will again be his assistant.

Centenary Victor In S.I.A.A. Finals

JACKSON, Miss., March 3.—(P)—Centenary's superb victory over Tennessee Tech squad in the final game of the annual S. I. A. A. basketball tournament here tonight and the gentlemen from Shreveport easily gained the 1933 title.

Auburn to Hold Practice Contest

AUBURN, Ala., March 3.—Head Coach Chet Wynne today announced that Auburn's first spring football practice game would be played at Drake field Saturday, starting at 2:30 p. m. Coach Wynne has divided his squad into two outfits for the practice contest with Capt. Ripper Williams, the Tusculum wizard, leading one club and Alternate Captain Boots Chambers, Montgomery thunderbolt, the other. Williams is a crack signal blocker and is supposed to be a guard. Both Williams and Chambers are anxious to lead their cohorts to victory and an interesting battle looms for Drake field Saturday a week.

Shellman and Parrott Win in Girls' Tourney

DAWSON, Ga., March 3.—The girls' basketball tournament for the western section of the third district got under way here this afternoon when Grave was eliminated by Parrott by a score of 55-30. Lumpkin forfeited to Outhbert. Shellman defeated Sasser, 42 to 30.

Ocean Mail Contracts Are Put Up to Farley

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(P)—Postmaster-General Brown today decided not to award the contract for ocean mail service between Philadelphia and other north Atlantic ports to British ports for which bids were opened Wednesday, but will leave the award for the new postmaster-general.

He so notified Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, who was sponsor of a resolution adopted by the senate asking the postmaster-general to withhold award until in testimony of the Philadelphia Mail Steamship Company could be made.

Greenwood Is Named Party Whip in House

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(P)—Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the new democratic floor leader, today announced appointment of Representative Arthur H. Greenwood, of Indiana, as party whip in the next house.

Byrns also said Representative Cullen, of New York, leader of the Tammany group, would be his assistant leader.

Greenwood voted against the democratic-sponsored repeal resolution and against the beer bill. In his position of whip it will be one of his duties to round up votes for the party to fulfill its pledge to apply the Volstead act to legalize beer.

2 Elderly Women Treated at Grady For Broken Hips

Five persons, including two elderly women, suffered fractures of their left hips in falls, were treated Friday at Grady hospital, according to attaches.

Mrs. Ella Bradberry, 74, of 975 Rice street, and Mrs. Alice Andrews, 75, of 372 Ormond street, were both admitted with fractured hips.

Other patients were Mrs. Annie Louise Ferguson, 10, of 1687 Pryor street, for whom a diet was prescribed to eliminate a thumb tack swallowed.

Miss Morris, 23, of 694 McDonald street, head injured in fall from stool in restaurant.

Miss Sarah Toney, 19, of an Atlanta avenue address, lacerations on the neck received in an automobile accident.

HOOVER SIGNS FIFTH APPROPRIATION BILL

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(P)—President Hoover today signed the fifth of the major appropriations bills for the next fiscal year, placing the Treasury department at $1,000,000,000.

The measure is regarded as highly important in the stabilization of international shipping and its progress through congress and up to the White House was watched closely by shippers.

The bill was designed to prevent discrimination and protect by requiring filing definite rates with the shipping board and adhering to them.

TWO NEGRO SLAYERS HANGED IN LOUISIANA

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 3.—(P)—In a double execution, the state of Louisiana today hanged Philip Morgan and George Woods, for six murders in Calcasieu parish.

Morgan was hanged for the slaying of Mary Jane Smith, a white woman, and for the slaying of Vincent, Vincent's wife and their three children by crushing their heads with a hammer and setting them on fire.

Woods died for the slaying of Allan Fruge, local youth, who was fatally shot and killed by a young woman, who struck him in his back, one entering the abdominal cavity. Glisson told police he came here three weeks ago from Chambers, where his wife, J. C. Glisson, lives. His mother, he said, lives in Bainbridge.

GEORGIA YOUTH SHOT FOR AEROCRAFT

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—(P)—Carl Glisson, 17, from Chamblee, Ga., was shot and wounded seriously today by Charles Brookfield, caretaker, after he is alleged to have broken into and robbed the private aerodrome of Congressman Ruth Bryan Owen, in Coconut Grove, a suburb, for the second time in a week.

A shotgun blast fired from a shotgun struck Glisson in the chest, one entering the abdominal cavity. Glisson told police he came here three weeks ago from Chambers, where his wife, J. C. Glisson, lives. His mother, he said, lives in Bainbridge.

COTTON RATE SLASH POSTPONED BY I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(P)—A proposed reduction in freight rates on cotton from Natchez, Miss., to New Orleans was postponed today until October 3, pending an investigation of the interstate commerce commission.

Georgia Wins 32d Anniversary Is Celebrated By Benning Infantry Regiment

FORT BENNING, Ga., March 3.—(P)—The 29th infantry, demonstration regiment of the army school here, today celebrated its 32d birthday. All but necessary routine duties were suspended for the day, and entertainment, ending with a dance tonight, substituted.

Colonel William E. Persons, new commander who took over his duties yesterday, addressed the men on the history of the regiment.

Tank demonstrations and a review of activities of chemical warfare troops greeted members of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States assembled here today for a two-day conference.

An address on the subject "Mechanization of the Army," by Major Serrell Brett, held prominent position on today's program.

Major General Campbell King, commanding officer of the post; Judge Arthur Lynch, of the American Legion committee on national defense; Colonel Joseph L. Muldrow, president of the Georgia department; Lieutenant Colonel R. T. Fortsburg, president of the Florida department; and Colonel E. G. Peyton are on the Saturday program.

Sugar-Sack Clothing For Poor of Albany

ALBANY, Ga., March 3.—(P)—There will be no scarcity of clothes for the poor of Albany as long as the sugar sacks last.

Chief of Police D. W. Bronson, who heads unemployment relief work, and the Parent-Teacher Association have joined forces to scour the town for sacks and convert them into wearing apparel.

Monks, of the Savannah Sugar Refining Company, attended a conference of relief workers and displayed exhibits of clothing that can be made of sacks.

BETTER COTTON PAYS FARMERS IN SPALDING

ATHENS, Ga., March 3.—The success of farmers in the Orchard Hill community of Spalding county in reaping premiums from growing better quality of cotton is a good illustration of what can be done even under present conditions with Georgia's principal money crop, according to E. C. Westbrook, cotton specialist of the Georgia agricultural extension service.

These farmers, Mr. Westbrook declares, started two years ago with about 200 acres planted to Stoneville No. 2 cotton. This cotton has a staple of from 1 1/4 to 1 1/8 inch. It is very early with sparse foliage.

The first planting of this cotton met with the farmers' approval and last year about 1,500 acres of this variety were planted in the Orchard Hill community. The buyers early in the season paid the farmers 50 points or 1-2 cent a pound premium. A little later in the season the premium was advanced to 70 points, or $3.50 a bale.

Farmers in the Orchard Hill community organized themselves into the Orchard Hill Cotton Improvement Association and will plant between 5,000 and 8,000 acres in Stoneville No. 2 cotton this year. The success of the Orchard Hill community has stimulated a great deal of interest in other communities and there will be about one hundred new communities organized this year in adjoining counties, Mr. Westbrook says.

PLAN PUBLIC WORKS TO AID TOOMBS IDLE

LYONS, Ga., March 3.—Several hundred unemployed people of the county may be given work through the expenditure of several thousand dollars for federal unemployment relief money for civil improvements or enterprises, if plans to be presented to the county commissioners are approved at their regular meeting the second Tuesday in March.

A county mass meeting which was to have been held here last Saturday for the purpose of presenting the proposal to the citizens of the county had to be postponed because J. Ellis Pope, representative, was prevented from reaching Lyons because of injuries received in an auto accident.

E. F. Parker, clerk of the board of county commissioners and county engineer, and C. C. Moseley went to Atlanta early this week and conferred with Mr. De Launeau, representative of Governor Thomas and head of the Georgia Relief Administration. Mr. Parker and Mr. Moseley were advised that Toombs county could undoubtedly get an appropriation for this purpose. As explained by Mr. De Launeau, the amount of the appropriation will depend upon the amount of unemployment in the county which will be determined by a social survey department of the state.

The survey will be made without cost to the county.

MEET TO PLAN CROPS FOR HENRY COUNTY

McDONOUGH, Ga., March 3.—A meeting of all Henry county citizens interested in a crop production loan for 1933 has been called by the local representative of the county agricultural agent, C. M. Dellinger, for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Henry county courthouse. All applicants are expected to register at the meeting. It is understood that this meeting is to lay plans for the various crops grown in this county.

State Deaths And Funerals

LUCIUS D. SMITH. Milledgeville, Ga., March 3.—Funeral services for Lucius D. Smith, 56, died at Milledgeville following a long illness, were held at 2 o'clock today at the home of his wife, Mrs. M. Smith, in Baldwin county, and his funeral was attended by the largest gathering of relatives and friends ever held in the county. The body was buried in the cemetery at Milledgeville.

B. D. EDWARDS. Milledgeville, Ga., March 3.—B. D. Edwards, World War veteran and employee of the Milledgeville state hospital, died Sunday morning at his home on Jefferson street. He is survived by his wife, three children and several brothers and sisters.

32d Anniversary Is Celebrated By Benning Infantry Regiment

FORT BENNING, Ga., March 3.—(P)—The 29th infantry, demonstration regiment of the army school here, today celebrated its 32d birthday. All but necessary routine duties were suspended for the day, and entertainment, ending with a dance tonight, substituted.

Colonel William E. Persons, new commander who took over his duties yesterday, addressed the men on the history of the regiment.

Tank demonstrations and a review of activities of chemical warfare troops greeted members of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States assembled here today for a two-day conference.

An address on the subject "Mechanization of the Army," by Major Serrell Brett, held prominent position on today's program.

Major General Campbell King, commanding officer of the post; Judge Arthur Lynch, of the American Legion committee on national defense; Colonel Joseph L. Muldrow, president of the Georgia department; Lieutenant Colonel R. T. Fortsburg, president of the Florida department; and Colonel E. G. Peyton are on the Saturday program.

Sugar-Sack Clothing For Poor of Albany

ALBANY, Ga., March 3.—(P)—There will be no scarcity of clothes for the poor of Albany as long as the sugar sacks last.

Chief of Police D. W. Bronson, who heads unemployment relief work, and the Parent-Teacher Association have joined forces to scour the town for sacks and convert them into wearing apparel.

Monks, of the Savannah Sugar Refining Company, attended a conference of relief workers and displayed exhibits of clothing that can be made of sacks.

BETTER COTTON PAYS FARMERS IN SPALDING

ATHENS, Ga., March 3.—The success of farmers in the Orchard Hill community of Spalding county in reaping premiums from growing better quality of cotton is a good illustration of what can be done even under present conditions with Georgia's principal money crop, according to E. C. Westbrook, cotton specialist of the Georgia agricultural extension service.

These farmers, Mr. Westbrook declares, started two years ago with about 200 acres planted to Stoneville No. 2 cotton. This cotton has a staple of from 1 1/4 to 1 1/8 inch. It is very early with sparse foliage.

The first planting of this cotton met with the farmers' approval and last year about 1,500 acres of this variety were planted in the Orchard Hill community. The buyers early in the season paid the farmers 50 points or 1-2 cent a pound premium. A little later in the season the premium was advanced to 70 points, or $3.50 a bale.

Farmers in the Orchard Hill community organized themselves into the Orchard Hill Cotton Improvement Association and will plant between 5,000 and 8,000 acres in Stoneville No. 2 cotton this year. The success of the Orchard Hill community has stimulated a great deal of interest in other communities and there will be about one hundred new communities organized this year in adjoining counties, Mr. Westbrook says.

PLAN PUBLIC WORKS TO AID TOOMBS IDLE

LYONS, Ga., March 3.—Several hundred unemployed people of the county may be given work through the expenditure of several thousand dollars for federal unemployment relief money for civil improvements or enterprises, if plans to be presented to the county commissioners are approved at their regular meeting the second Tuesday in March.

A county mass meeting which was to have been held here last Saturday for the purpose of presenting the proposal to the citizens of the county had to be postponed because J. Ellis Pope, representative, was prevented from reaching Lyons because of injuries received in an auto accident.

E. F. Parker, clerk of the board of county commissioners and county engineer, and C. C. Moseley went to Atlanta early this week and conferred with Mr. De Launeau, representative of Governor Thomas and head of the Georgia Relief Administration. Mr. Parker and Mr. Moseley were advised that Toombs county could undoubtedly get an appropriation for this purpose. As explained by Mr. De Launeau, the amount of the appropriation will depend upon the amount of unemployment in the county which will be determined by a social survey department of the state.

The survey will be made without cost to the county.

MEET TO PLAN CROPS FOR HENRY COUNTY

McDONOUGH, Ga., March 3.—A meeting of all Henry county citizens interested in a crop production loan for 1933 has been called by the local representative of the county agricultural agent, C. M. Dellinger, for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Henry county courthouse. All applicants are expected to register at the meeting. It is understood that this meeting is to lay plans for the various crops grown in this county.

State Deaths And Funerals

LUCIUS D. SMITH. Milledgeville, Ga., March 3.—Funeral services for Lucius D. Smith, 56, died at Milledgeville following a long illness, were held at 2 o'clock today at the home of his wife, Mrs. M. Smith, in Baldwin county, and his funeral was attended by the largest gathering of relatives and friends ever held in the county. The body was buried in the cemetery at Milledgeville.

B. D. EDWARDS. Milledgeville, Ga., March 3.—B. D. Edwards, World War veteran and employee of the Milledgeville state hospital, died Sunday morning at his home on Jefferson street. He is survived by his wife, three children and several brothers and sisters.

32d Anniversary Is Celebrated By Benning Infantry Regiment

FORT BENNING, Ga., March 3.—(P)—The 29th infantry, demonstration regiment of the army school here, today celebrated its 32d birthday. All but necessary routine duties were suspended for the day, and entertainment, ending with a dance tonight, substituted.

Colonel William E. Persons, new commander who took over his duties yesterday, addressed the men on the history of the regiment.

Tank demonstrations and a review of activities of chemical warfare troops greeted members of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States assembled here today for a two-day conference.

An address on the subject "Mechanization of the Army," by Major Serrell Brett, held prominent position on today's program.

Major General Campbell King, commanding officer of the post; Judge Arthur Lynch, of the American Legion committee on national defense; Colonel Joseph L. Muldrow, president of the Georgia department; Lieutenant Colonel R. T. Fortsburg, president of the Florida department; and Colonel E. G. Peyton are on the Saturday program.

Sugar-Sack Clothing For Poor of Albany

ALBANY, Ga., March 3.—(P)—There will be no scarcity of clothes for the poor of Albany as long as the sugar sacks last.

Chief of Police D. W. Bronson, who heads unemployment relief work, and the Parent-Teacher Association have joined forces to scour the town for sacks and convert them into wearing apparel.

Monks, of the Savannah Sugar Refining Company, attended a conference of relief workers and displayed exhibits of clothing that can be made of sacks.

BETTER COTTON PAYS FARMERS IN SPALDING

ATHENS, Ga., March 3.—The success of farmers in the Orchard Hill community of Spalding county in reaping premiums from growing better quality of cotton is a good illustration of what can be done even under present conditions with Georgia's principal money crop, according to E. C. Westbrook, cotton specialist of the Georgia agricultural extension service.

These farmers, Mr. Westbrook declares, started two years ago with about 200 acres planted to Stoneville No. 2 cotton. This cotton has a staple of from 1 1/4 to 1 1/8 inch. It is very early with sparse foliage.

<

AROUND LOCAL CONTRACT TABLES

by Whitner Cary

Owing to the big entry list for this afternoon's play, the management of the bridge tournament announced Friday that play at the Druid Hills Golf Club would start promptly at 1 o'clock. Any pair not on hand at starting time will be disqualified.

The team-of-four, the piece de resistance of the Georgia state bridge tournament now in progress in our midst, is about at the half-way mark as these lines are typed early Friday night. Unfortunately for my readers, if any, this will be the only opportunity until Sunday's paper that I will have of telling you about the event. So lend me your ears and let's see what has happened.

Shortly after 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, eight picked teams, some consisting of four and several of five players, assembled in the Spanish room of the Shrine Mosque. Until 6:30 o'clock these players battled with every particle of their bridge knowledge and skill against the fastest field of bridge stars ever assembled in Atlanta.

Each team was scheduled to play five boards against every other team. At the suspension of play each team has played five other teams, which made a total of 25 boards. The remaining ten boards will be added to the allotted quota of 35 in tonight's session. This makes a total of 70 boards played by each team.

At the recess hour, the team composed of Mrs. Humphrey Wagar, Henry Tompkins, Roy Gowan, Fred Levy and Whitehead, held a half point lead over the strong Augusta quartet composed of Mrs. William Gary, Mrs. J. P. Dougherty Jr., Mrs. Caroline Michael and Henry Cullum. The leaders had 4 1/2 points out of a possible five, having not lost a match and having both the rest of the field in within striking distance and the evening's play promised to provide some very close and heated play, with 45 more boards to play. It will be the wee small hours of Saturday morning before the last bid has been made.

The following teams, in addition to those mentioned, are engaged in the battle: Mrs. Lewis Hamilton, Mrs. Joe Rosenfield, Fred Shaffer and Bill Dickey; Mrs. E. F. Porter, Orlando Perkinson, Ben Conyers and Bob Segert; Mrs. Joseph Taylor, Billy Barrett, Henry Chanin and Harold Dillon; Mrs. George Black, Mrs. J. T. Daniel, Frank Smith, Jack Feagin and Don Daniel; Mrs. Gladys Peabody, Miss Peggy Porter, Joe David and Ed Jarvis, and Mrs. Claude Williamson, Mrs. Vera Brown, Fred Neuberger and D. T. Martin.

Today the pair championship, the final event of the four event series comprising this year's Georgia state tournament, will be drawn for decision. The response in entries for this popular championship has now reached around 36 pairs, the largest entry list in any event in the history of the Georgia state. Owing to the great number of players who will compete, the management of the Druid Hills Golf Club. It has also been announced that, owing to the long sessions required, play in this championship will start promptly at 1 o'clock. Any pair not on hand at that hour will be disqualified.

The Individual Championship. Probably no tournament ever staged in Atlanta had a more exciting or dramatic finish than did the individual championship which was completed in the early minutes of Friday morning and which saw Henry Chanin emerge the victor by two points over a field of a dozen experts who had survived the elimination held in the afternoon. Coming up to the last three boards, Chanin was trailing by one and one-half points. Mrs. Joseph Taylor, who had made a splendid spurt from a rather indifferent beginning, was showing the way as the tired and card-weary players took their places for that final stretch drive.

As Henry sat down opposite your correspondent, who happened to be his partner for that final last drive, he remarked: "Cary, I need three tops on these last three boards to win this championship." I was absolutely out of the running at that time, but can truthfully say that the play on those last three hands provided me with greater thrill than any I have received in this tournament.

For once in our lives Henry and I clicked as a partnership. The result was that we got five out of a possible point. Henry won the championship and the beautiful silver pitcher given by The Constitution to the winner, and your correspondent went home happy in the victory of a very dear friend and the knowledge that he had received three thrills that will linger with him as long as he can detect a club bid from a spade ace.

Well, a fine player and an splendid sportsman won that event, and I take this opportunity to add my congratulations to those of his countless friends and admirers.

Right here before we go any further, I want to stand up and make a most profound bow to my partner, Henry Tompkins. I have never seen him turn in a finer game than that exhibited during the afternoon session. Maybe Henry will get wild during the evening and get careless like he occasionally does, but at this writing he deserves many laurel wreaths and volumes of praise. If the tournament continues close Henry is likely to continue his beautiful play. If our team should get into a lead he may lapse into carelessness and start giving exhibitions.

U. S. FARM BOARD TO BE ABOLISHED

Continued from First Page.

Department of agriculture, now engaged in disbursing $90,000,000 in federal funds, and the regional farm agencies established by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation—both described as "emergency functions" by Morgenthau.

Fourth Division. The fourth division is planned for the activities of the federal government in aiding the farm mortgage situation—activities for which Roosevelt is expected to recommend congressional approval and details of which remain to be worked out.

Soon after Morgenthau's announcement, the senate adopted a resolution permitting its agriculture committee to continue its investigation of the farm board in the next congress. The senate also adopted a report of senate and house conferees on a bill for extending additional credit to farmers by the federal land banks. House approval only is necessary to send it to the White House.

Morgenthau's reorganization plan was accepted as indicative of a new trend which the new administration will prescribe—individual responsibility instead of centering duties in the hands of boards or commissions.

A man can be fired if he doesn't make good," Morgenthau said, explaining that as conservation commissioner of New York state, a post he resigned last week, he found that "if you want something done it is better to delegate a job to one man than a whole bunch of them."

Morgenthau conferred with James C. Stone, retiring chairman of the board, whose position the Roosevelt appointee will occupy Monday. Morgenthau said that parts of his reorganization plan will require legislation by congress, but that some of it will be accomplished during the next month by executive order.

"It may help the farmer I believe," Morgenthau said. "Now he has to go to many different agencies to obtain loans of various sorts and each agency sends out a man to check up on him. Under the consolidated plan, the farmer will come to one place for his loans and one man will do the checking."

"That will mean lower cost of administration and help the farmer's interest rates—and lower interest rates for the farmer are a necessity towards which we will work."

In its annual report to congress, the federal farm loan board reported that federal intermediate credit bank loans to, and discounts for, financing institutions during 1932 amounted to $151,577,651, its largest volume since the banks were organized. Credit of the banks outstanding December 31 was $82,517,754.

During the year the banks extended credit of $80,245,114 to farm co-operative marketing groups with only $8,865,000 outstanding at the end of the year. The board said the reduction was largely accounted for by the payment in full of loans to the grain stabilization corporation and to the American Cotton Co-operative Association on commodity security. The cotton organization completed the payment of its balance in January.

Continued from First Page.

Outside of improvised hospitals where thousands sought their lost children or other relatives.

Along the coast, bodies began drifting ashore today. Authorities in the prefecture of Iwate said that at least 20 villages in that prefecture had been wiped out.

Late Friday night the full casualty list had not been compiled, as communications with many sections remained broken. It was feared that the death toll would be materially increased. Reports showed that 7,630 homes had been destroyed and that the tidal wave had wrecked or carried to sea 1,570 small boats.

A heavy snowfall impeded efforts to send relief to the stricken area by airplanes, which were forced to turn back. The navy came to the rescue, however, and doctors and medical supplies were landed from five destroyers. An engineer battalion and two cavalry regiments were dispatched to the area by the army. They took with them food, medical supplies and blankets.

Although much of the island of Honshu, the largest of the Japanese archipelago, felt the earthquake, the damage for the most part was confined to the prefectures of Miyagi, Aomori and Iwate and the island of Hokkaido, just north of Honshu.

The epicenter of the earthquake, which was followed by successive tidal waves, was placed 125 miles southeast of Kinkazan Island, or in the Pacific about 190 miles northeast of Tokyo.

Terrorized residents of scores of communities rushed to the cold streets in the dark as electric currents failed. In towns throughout the area alarm gongs were sounded and there were cries of "Onami!"—meaning tidal wave—for a period of about 40 minutes after the earth shook. The majority of the people, knowing well what was coming, rushed to the hills to escape.

The city of Miyako on the coast reported a series of waves, each of which swept through houses and washed away boats.

Fires caused by the quake were left to rage unchecked as townspeople rushed to safety after the shock.

DAUGHTER OF MACK DIES AT ASHEVILLE

Mrs. Margaret McCambridge Passes at Home in Resort City.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 3.—(P)—Mrs. Margaret McCambridge, daughter of Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics baseball club, died at her home here late tonight.

W. H. JAMES. SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 3.—(P)—W. H. James, 61, business director of the McClatchy newspapers until his retirement a year ago and business adviser since that time, died here today, two weeks after he suffered a heart attack.

DR. VICTOR L. DUKE. REDLANDS, Cal., March 3.—(P)—Dr. Victor Leroy Duke, president of the University of Redlands for the past 18 years, died today of heart disease at his residence here.

Born in Henderson county, Illinois, in 1874, he became a mathematics professor at the university here when it was founded in 1900.

Electoral College Actually Meets

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(P)—The men and women who elected Franklin D. Roosevelt—members of the electoral college—actually met for the first time tonight.

Nearly 200 of them were guests at a dinner given by the inaugural committee at the largest meeting of electors ever held.

The electors, whose work is cut out for them when voters cast their ballots, hold state meetings but the formality of forwarding their ballots to Washington is now done by the United States mails.

James M. Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee and postmaster-general-designate, was an honor guest at the dinner and addressed the group briefly.

Life Savings of $10,180 Snatched From Woman

NEW YORK, March 3.—(P)—Mrs. Martha Lauchman, 55, reported to Brooklyn police today that she had been robbed of $10,180—her life savings which she had just drawn out of two banks.

Mrs. Lauchman intended to put the money in a safe deposit box, but decided to go shopping first. While she was walking on a Brooklyn street, she said, a roughly dressed stranger jostled her, snatched her purse and ran a block down the street where he got into an automobile in which two other men sat.

Be Early! Last Day of Spectacular "Swallow Sale" Savings—

HIGH'S BASEMENT STORE

Silk Blouses $1.50 Values Sizes: 32 to 40 $1

79c---$1 Sweaters Sizes 34 to 40! Turtle or round necks! Johnny collars. Puff or long sleeves. Every color! 50c

Women's $1 Knit Dresses Exactly right these cool mornings! Smart styles. Many color combinations. Sizes 14 to 20. 49c

Women's Unions, 2 for 39c quality knit unions. Built-up shoulders. Wide legs. All sizes. White. 50c

39c Broadcloth Slips Women's built-up shoulder and strap styles. Flesh, white and honeydew. 34 to 52. 25c

79c House Dresses You'll Want Several 59c

Crisp organdy trim—on 80-square broadcloth prints! New sleeves. New length skirts. Features! Sizes 14 to 52.

Men! $10.95-$12.95 Suits

Read That Headline Again, Men—These Suits Are Now $8.49

All Wool Tweeds Worsted Herringbone Kashmeres

New—all-wool worsteds—woven to stand punishment! Tailored to please the most particular. Solids! Stripes! Mixtures! For a real value-surprise—get one look at them!

79c to $1.59 Men's Shirts Madras Oxford Broadcloth 59c

Oh, Boy! Here's winding-up the Swallow Sale with a bang! Printed and solid broadcloth. Striped madras and oxfords. Sizes 14 to 17.

Boys' Unions 2 for 39c Values! Full cut knit unions, knee length, ecru and white. 6 to 16. 50c

Boys' 49c Overalls Heavy blue denim. High-back. Sizes 4 to 16. 29c

Men's Reg. 10c Sox Black, brown, blue, tan, grey, white. 9 1/2 to 12. 5c

Reg. 19c 8-oz. Ticking Holds every feather. Regulation width. Yd. 10c

2-Yr. Guarantee 64c Sheets 81x90! Imagine—guaranteed 2 years. No starch. Torn to size. 59c

Rayon Hose, 4 Pr. Or 19c a pair! Every pair perfect. How wise to wear them for every day. New colors. 8 1/2 to 10. 59c

Child's Sox, 2 Pr. We hope every Mother in Atlanta sees this! Anklets, 1/2-lengths. All sizes. 25c

Hand-Made Gowns 39c Porto Rican and Philippine 79c values! Pastel colors—beautifully embroidered. Some with ties! Glad news to many dainty women. Sizes 16, 17, 18.

39c Rayon UNDIES Panties! Bloomers! Step-ins! 19c Women will buy enthusiastically at Saturday's price. Pastels. Small, medium and large.

Men's Reg. 10c Sox Black, brown, blue, tan, grey, white. 9 1/2 to 12. 5c

Burnstine, Schenken Team Wins Eastern Tournament

NEW YORK, March 3.—(P)—David Burnstine, Richard L. Frey, Howard Schenken and Charles Lochridge won the eastern team-of-four bridge championship today, defeating Oswald Jacoby, Louis H. Watson, Theodore A. Lightner and Michael T. Gottlieb in the final by 1,980 points.

Jacoby and his teammates are associates of Ely Culbertson, while the victors had the support of P. Hal Sims, who declined to defend his title reputedly because the tournament was identified with the United States Bridge League, in which Culbertson is prominent.

In winning today the Burnstine group duplicated its triumph in the semi-final of the Vanderbilt last fall, when it vanquished the same team except that Culbertson himself was Jacoby's partner, instead of Watson.

Sims had sent a telegram to Burnstine and his teammates, which was posted on the bulletin board, expressing the hope they would win. Jacoby and Burnstine, with Willard S. Karn, played together on Sims' "Four Horsemen" of last year trophy, was new this year.

Two comparative unknowns, Mrs. Grace Perrell and E. E. Bailey, led the surviving 28 couples in the pair championship in the final round tonight.

Tomorrow will be devoted to the Rogue Elephant Slain After Killing Trainer

HONOLULU, March 3.—(P)—Daisy, rogue elephant owned by the Waikiki zoo, late today killed her keeper, George Conrad, 60, in a tantrum that cost her her life.

Police with high-powered rifles dispatched the elephant after the Waikiki district was thrown into a panic. The attack occurred in a rainstorm. The elephant, chained to a tree after becoming fractious, was to have been killed recently but due to strong public protest arrangements were made only last week to have Conrad, who had been unemployed three months, return to the zoo in his capacity of keeper.

CHAMBLEE, GA., YOUTH IS WOUNDED AT MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—(P)—A youth who gave his name as Carl Glisson, of Chamblee, Ga., was wounded today by Charles Brookfield, caretaker, who charged the young man with attempting to rob the aircraft of Congressman Rube Bryan Owen.

Brookfield said he shot when the youth attempted to escape.

Lost Ring Discovered As Collar on Rat

WISNER, Neb., March 3.—(UP)—When Bus Hilbers saw a mouse wearing a gold collar he investigated more thoroughly and found the collar was his own ring, lost three weeks earlier.

Cotton Classification Bill Goes to Hoover

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(P)—The senate today passed and sent to the White House a bill directing the secretary of agriculture to provide additional facilities for the classification of cotton.

The measure would request the secretary to extend to cotton growers the classification facilities required under the cotton standards act of 1923, with such supervision of licensed classifiers as he considers necessary.

He also would be authorized to issue "to any qualified person" a license to sample cotton.

WE HAVE FAITH IN ATLANTA WE HAVE FAITH IN GEORGIA WE HAVE FAITH IN AMERICA BUY AT

Jacobs CHARGE IT

DRUGS—TOILETRIES—LUNCHES 54 YEARS SERVING ATLANTANS

Note: If you do not have a charge account with Jacobs see your nearest Jacobs manager and he will tell you how to open one.

Unbelievable---Until You Actually SEE Them! $2.99 and $3.95 Models

Silk Dresses $1.98

Reg. 59c HOSE Full Fashioned Chiffons! Service! 39c

Things will surely hum today! When have you seen 42 and 45-gauge hose priced so low? EVERY PAIR PERFECT. 8 1/2 to 10 1/2.

Rayon Hose, 4 Pr. Or 19c a pair! Every pair perfect. How wise to wear them for every day. New colors. 8 1/2 to 10. 59c

Child's Sox, 2 Pr. We hope every Mother in Atlanta sees this! Anklets, 1/2-lengths. All sizes. 25c

Hand-Made Gowns 39c Porto Rican and Philippine 79c values! Pastel colors—beautifully embroidered. Some with ties! Glad news to many dainty women. Sizes 16, 17, 18.

39c Rayon UNDIES Panties! Bloomers! Step-ins! 19c Women will buy enthusiastically at Saturday's price. Pastels. Small, medium and large.

Reg. 19c 8-oz. Ticking Holds every feather. Regulation width. Yd. 10c

2-Yr. Guarantee 64c Sheets 81x90! Imagine—guaranteed 2 years. No starch. Torn to size. 59c

Men's Reg. 10c Sox Black, brown, blue, tan, grey, white. 9 1/2 to 12. 5c

Boys' Unions 2 for 39c Values! Full cut knit unions, knee length, ecru and white. 6 to 16. 50c

Boys' 49c Overalls Heavy blue denim. High-back. Sizes 4 to 16. 29c

Men's Reg. 10c Sox Black, brown, blue, tan, grey, white. 9 1/2 to 12. 5c

Reg. 19c 8-oz. Ticking Holds every feather. Regulation width. Yd. 10c

2-Yr. Guarantee 64c Sheets 81x90! Imagine—guaranteed 2 years. No starch. Torn to size. 59c

Men's Reg. 10c Sox Black, brown, blue, tan, grey, white. 9 1/2 to 12. 5c

Boys' Unions 2 for 39c Values! Full cut knit unions, knee length, ecru and white. 6 to 16. 50c

Boys' 49c Overalls Heavy blue denim. High-back. Sizes 4 to 16. 29c

Men's Reg. 10c Sox Black, brown, blue, tan, grey, white. 9 1/2 to 12. 5c

Georgia Women Meet Mesdames Roosevelt, Garner

By MAINER LEE TOLER,
Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, March 3.—Women leaders of the democratic party from every state in the country assembled this afternoon at the Woman's National Democratic Club to meet Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who tomorrow becomes the first lady of the land. Among the notables receiving with Mrs. Roosevelt were Mrs. John N. Garner, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Curtis Dall, Mrs. Cary Grayson, and Mrs. Cosby Swanson. The guests were presented to Mrs. Roosevelt by Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin, president of the National Democratic Club.

Mrs. Roosevelt greeted over a thousand women with a smile that is characteristic of her gracious personality. She wore a simple navy blue dress with a smart crepe scarf of Eleanor blue, which is her favorite color and bears her given name. Her sailor type hat was of navy blue straw banded with small feathers in the Eleanor blue shade that emphasized the deep blue eyes of the future mistress of the White House. Mrs. Curtis Dall, daughter of President-elect and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, also chose a navy blue costume for the reception, with which she wore a matching hat of straw trimmed with a small red and white ornament. Mrs. Garner, wife of the future

Garden Hills Club Meeting Is Featured By Georgia Program

The Garden Hills Club met at the clubhouse Wednesday with 32 present. Mrs. W. L. Ballenger, the president, was in the chair. Mrs. Phil Boykin, the secretary, read a letter from the Grady Hospital auxiliary asking the club to sponsor a division. Mrs. G. Z. Macarty was appointed as representative from the club for this work. Mrs. Ballenger announced a meeting of the garden division to be held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Roberts, 443 East Peachtree, on Wednesday, March 8, at 10 o'clock.

Will Receive at Tea

Mrs. W. Frank Wells, of Hapeville, Ga., who is vice president of the Alumnae Association of Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, and who will assist in receiving the guests at the G. S. C. W. tea at which Miss Ruth Blair, state historian, will entertain at the Rhodes Memorial hall Sunday afternoon, March 5.

Henry Cabaniss Talks To Pioneer Women

Hon. Henry H. Cabaniss spoke to the Pioneer Women of Atlanta Wednesday at the meeting. Mr. Cabaniss came to Atlanta in 1867, then a soldier of 18 years, having begun his editorial work in Forsyth. No man is more conversant in incidents of historic significance as related to Atlanta and to the south than Mr. Cabaniss.

Atlanta Woman's Club Features Industrial Week on Program

The second week in March has been designated by the board of the General Federation of Women's Clubs as industrial forum week in conformity with the plans of national chairman of women in industry, Mrs. N. O. Newman, chairman of problems in industry for the Atlanta Woman's Club, and Miss Eula Lang, chairman of problems in industry for the fifth district, have outlined an interesting and informative program to be held at the Atlanta Woman's Club Monday, March 13, at 3 o'clock.

WOMEN'S MEETINGS

SATURDAY, MARCH 4.

Every Saturday Club meets with Mrs. Charles J. Haden at 1521 Peachtree street at 11 o'clock.

Group No. 4 of the Wesleyan alumnae meets at the home of Mrs. D. W. Clanton, of 960 Oakdale, road, N. E.

Atlanta Junior Music Club string quartet will rehearse at 9:30 o'clock, the orchestra at 10:30 o'clock and the chorus at 12 o'clock at Rich's school room.

Camp Evan P. Howell, U. C. V. No. 1825, meets at 1:45 o'clock in Judge Jeffries' court room.

Circle No. 2 of the LaGrange College alumnae meets at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Miss Josephine Glenn, 410 Sinclair avenue, N. E.

For Bridal Couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy T. Tebo were hosts at dinner last evening at their home on East Shadowlawn avenue in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Eaton Bass Hill, whose marriage took place Monday at the home of the bride in LaGrange, Ga. Mrs. Hill was the former Miss Frances Morgan and the couple are residing in Atlanta.

Atlanta Agnes Scott Alumnae Club Will Entertain High School Seniors

Atlanta Agnes Scott Alumnae Club will sponsor a party for high school seniors of Atlanta and Decatur on Saturday, March 11, at their college. Over 200 local high school students have been invited and Miss Eloise Gaines is chairman of the committee on arrangements. She will be assisted by Miss Patricia Collins, as co-chairman, and by Mrs. Samuel Inman Cooper, president of the Atlanta Agnes Scott Alumnae Club.

Students will be picked up at their respective high schools on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock and taken to the Agnes Scott college campus, to register and attend some of the Agnes Scott College officials. They will be taken on a tour of the campus by members of the Agnes Scott chapter of the national campus organization of Mortar Board. Miss Katharine Woltz, president of the Agnes Scott 1933 Mortar Board organization, will be in charge of these arrangements.

Students will be picked up at their respective high schools on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock and taken to the Agnes Scott college campus, to register and attend some of the Agnes Scott College officials. They will be taken on a tour of the campus by members of the Agnes Scott chapter of the national campus organization of Mortar Board. Miss Katharine Woltz, president of the Agnes Scott 1933 Mortar Board organization, will be in charge of these arrangements.

Students will be picked up at their respective high schools on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock and taken to the Agnes Scott college campus, to register and attend some of the Agnes Scott College officials. They will be taken on a tour of the campus by members of the Agnes Scott chapter of the national campus organization of Mortar Board. Miss Katharine Woltz, president of the Agnes Scott 1933 Mortar Board organization, will be in charge of these arrangements.

Students will be picked up at their respective high schools on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock and taken to the Agnes Scott college campus, to register and attend some of the Agnes Scott College officials. They will be taken on a tour of the campus by members of the Agnes Scott chapter of the national campus organization of Mortar Board. Miss Katharine Woltz, president of the Agnes Scott 1933 Mortar Board organization, will be in charge of these arrangements.

Students will be picked up at their respective high schools on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock and taken to the Agnes Scott college campus, to register and attend some of the Agnes Scott College officials. They will be taken on a tour of the campus by members of the Agnes Scott chapter of the national campus organization of Mortar Board. Miss Katharine Woltz, president of the Agnes Scott 1933 Mortar Board organization, will be in charge of these arrangements.

SOCIETY EVENTS

SATURDAY, MARCH 4.

Mrs. Ralph Allison will entertain at luncheon honoring Miss Rowena Wyche.

Mrs. J. N. McEachern and Mrs. Taylor B. Smith will be hostesses at tea at their home on Ponce de Leon avenue honoring Miss Louise Hancock, bride-elect.

Dinner-dance will be held at Piedmont Driving Club.

"Quality Street," by James M. Barrie, will be presented by Blackfriars at Agnes Scott College at 8:30 o'clock.

Atlanta branch of Salem College alumnae will be entertained at tea by the president, Mrs. W. R. Prescott, at her home, 799 Clifton road, at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Kappa Alpha Theta alumnae entertain at a luncheon at the Henry Grady hotel at 1 o'clock.

Fifth group of the Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae Club will hold a luncheon at Davison-Paxon's tea room at 12:45 o'clock.

Phi Mu Alumnae chapter will observe Founder's Day this afternoon at the home of Miss Elsie Mullin, 1084 St. Augustine place.

Matrons' Club of 1933 gives a luncheon at 2 o'clock in Parlor D, Ansley hotel.

Circle No. 1 of the Nellie Dodd Missionary Society will give a supper at the annex, from 6 to 8 o'clock.

Miss Louise Huddleston and Mrs. Lewis Ray will entertain at the home of Miss Huddleston on Drewry street this evening, honoring Miss Louise Beckham and D. E. Woods.

Miss Martha Keys, bride-elect, will be honor guest at the luncheon and theater party at which Miss Laura Causey will entertain at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. E. L. Hornbrooke entertains at the Avondale Community Club at 8 o'clock this evening.

Miss Christine Clausier will be hostess at luncheon and a linen shower at the Henry Grady in honor of Mrs. Len De For, a recent bride.

Gate City Lodge No. 144, of the B'nai B'rith, will sponsor a dance for the Atlanta chapter and guests at the Georgian Terrace club this evening.

Kirkwood Rebekah Lodge No. 20 will sponsor a show at 8 o'clock at the Kirkwood school auditorium, Kirkwood road.

Pilot Club of Atlanta will sponsor a benefit dance at the Knights of Columbus hall, 1200 Peachtree street, N. E.

Oriental Club sponsors a dance this evening from 9 to 12 o'clock at the Shrine mosque.

Miss Martha Keys Is Honor Guest.

Miss Martha Keys, whose marriage to Arthur Coffin Jr. will be a social event of next week, was central figure Friday at the luncheon at which Mrs. Charles M. Marshall was hostess at her home on Brookhaven drive.

The table held for its central decoration a blue bowl filled with pink roses, lavender freesias, yellow and lavender lilies. Covers were placed for Misses Keys, Avery Coffin, Ruth Brooke, Betty Crandall, Julia Henderson, Harriett Henderson, Catherine Bodenheimer, Mary Harris; Mesdames Harry Keys, mother of the bride-elect; Ben Smith, Joseph Read and the bridesmaids.

Miss Keys was honor guest at the tea Friday at which Miss Betty Crandall was hostess at her home on Collier road. Miss Crandall was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. A. C. Crandall, and the guests included a group of friends of the bride-elect.

Whitaker-Dutton Rites Took Place Sept. 10.

WEST POINT, Ga., March 3.—Mr. and Mrs. John Frank Whitaker, of Shawmut, announce the marriage of their daughter, Annie Ruth, to James Douglas Dutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Dutton, of Lanett, the wedding having taken place Saturday, September 10, 1932, at Opelika, Ala.

Mr. Dutton is taking a course in mechanical engineering at the Southern Union College at Wadley, Ala. Mrs. Dutton is making her home with her parents at Shawmut while her husband completes his education. Mr. Dutton is a graduate of the West Point High school and took a prominent part in athletics.

Mrs. Dutton attended Shawmut High school, is a popular member of the younger social set and has taken leading parts in amateur theatricals.

Luncheon Postponed.

The luncheon originally planned by the Temple Sisterhood for Monday, March 6, is cancelled and the meeting is called for 2:30 o'clock at the Temple house. Members are requested to note the change of time.

RICH'S CLOTHING SALE

MARCH 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th

LAST DAY! THOUSANDS OF NEW SPRING ITEMS AT HISTORY-MAKING PRICES!

Large-Size Miro-Dena Bath Powder
39¢
Complete With Puff Octagon-Shaped Box
A large, delightful powder that is most refreshing after the bath! This same size box was formerly $1.50—special for this Sale, 39¢.

Women's Non-Run Rayon Gowns
77¢
Tea Rose and Pink Shades Regular and Extra Sizes
A soft quality rayon that will not run! Made full and long and trimmed with a lovely patterned lace. And they will make the most adorable gifts!

As Good-Looking As Can Be! Spring Bags
$1
Crepes, Beaded Leather and Fabric Bags
1,000 perfectly stunning models! Beautifully fitted and lined with crepe and satin. White, egg-shell, navy, black, pink, blue.

600 Tailored Crispy Cotton Spring Blouses
88¢
Checks, Stripes Dots, Solids Organdy and Sheer Batiste
Precious little styles that will top spring suits with smartness! In blue, pink, beige, eggshell and white. Sizes 32 to 42.

From a Famous Maker Fabric Gloves
54¢
Reg. $1 and $1.50 Novelty and Plain Styles Washable
They fit beautifully and are well-made and tailored! In several attractive styles featuring plain, slip-on or with novelty cuffs. All spring colors and sizes.

HARPER'S

ATLANTA'S NEW HOME OF BEAUTIFUL SHOES

Presents "Florette"

A new, smart One-Eye Tie in Navy Blue Kid, Blonde Kid, Black Kid or Grey Kid. Smart, dressy heel, perfect fitting.

Just One of 100 New Styles at $3.00

and

$4.00

Sizes 2 1/2 to 9 AAAA to C Widths

Add 15c on Cash Mail Orders

HARPER'S

59 WHITEHALL STREET, S. W.

THE GUMPS—HEARTS AND FLOWERS

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—THE LUCK CHARM

MOON MULLINS—"SHOW ME THE WAY TO GO HOME"

SMITTY—SUITS US

GASOLINE ALLEY—WINDOW SHOPPING

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER—MISTAKEN IDENTITY

FORLORN RIVER

Two Old Cronies.

By Zane Gray

Folly Island

By Wallace Irwin

WHAT HAS COME BEFORE.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic bay, 50 miles from his Long Island home in Wyatville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new made fortune, known as "Moneybags," rows over to a town for a carpenter. A girl in a red canoe comes along and invites Bart over to her family's island, but her small brother says their mother would have a fit. Bart senses family secret. Inger sends help and takes home. Mr. Davis, the carpenter, tells Bart the barbers have lived on the island 15 years, but don't mix. The father travels. While the boat is being fixed Bart goes over to the island with the girl, Alice Bayley. He invites her to visit in Wyatville. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT V.

"Wake up, Bart! The world is yours, I shouldn't wonder."

She stood there offering herself, lightly, jestingly. But his hands stayed in his pockets.

"Say, what's going on in the world you just handed me?"

"O, everything. The Wyatville hunt was out today. Old Mr. Prewitt fell off his horse as usual. And why do you think I came rushing back from Philadelphia?"

"You just told me why. But why did you?"

"A boy friend wired me not to miss the Sadlers' dance."

"Boy friend? Which one?"

"Ingys Warren."

"O, my gosh!"

"What did you say that for?"

"I didn't."

"Liar. I just heard you."

"Well, if I were a girl, pretty as you are—"

"Thank you, sir."

"—pretty as you are, and Ingys Warren wired me to come to Wyatville. I'd grab my toothbrush and jump the first air mail for San Francisco. That's what I think of Ingys Warren."

"Nothing else?" she asked archly.

"He's a bum, and a poison bum, if anybody should ask you. You just called yourself experienced. Well, turn a little of that on Ingys Warren. Even the taxi drivers can tell you."

"O, they know everything!" In a baby voice, "Bart Burgess, are you getting swelled up, now that you're—"

"Bunk!" he snorted.

Aunt Het

Bart's dinner with Mr. McClellan had been a monologue of praise for the late Trevor Burgess, and because the ear of affection finally tires of eulogies the young man was growing impatient for the useful little man to go home. Mr. McClellan had told how old Trevor had been known as "the judge" at Yale. The sort you'd trust your sister to. "But I always wondered why he never went into public life. You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

SALLY'S SALLIES

YOU MEAN SHE HAS THE MIDDLE AGE SPREAD?

OH—NOT BROAD THAT WAY.

A lot of women broaden as they age; others merely grow fat.

JUST NUTS

COULD YOU PUT MY MIND AT EASE, CAPTAIN—WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF THE ICEBERG STRUCK AN ICEBERG?

OH, THANK YOU, CAPTAIN—THE ICEBERG WOULD GO ON AS IF NOTHING HAD HAPPENED!

"You're wonderful when you're strong like that! A woman loves to be mastered." This was play, but her round eyes were trying to win him. "I hope it isn't going to make you serious. I mean, all that money."

Then the doorbell rang and Ella announced, "Mr. Warren."

Ingalls Frederick Warren, when he appeared, was quite different from the damp person who had clung to a stranded catboat. His polo coat was slightly bombastic and something in his gesture casting it aside announced, "I'm a very rich young man." He was actually 28, yet his air of worldly wisdom made him appear older just then—his innocent glance seemed to be asking, "What one of you is in love?" And "how could I amuse myself with that?" Apparently the little shipwreck was hardly worth remembering. His aside to Lora was agreeably silent.

"You certainly missed a party last night."

"You're priceless!" whinnied Lora, now busily at work on Ingys. "O, Bart, I'm nearly dead. Won't my darling give us a cocktail?" In spite of that, Bart waited a moment for Ingys to decline.

"It's what the doctor ordered," said Ingys.

Therefore Bart shook up a cocktail and with every shake wondered why it's always on the cards, this being nice to people you'd rather see in jail. After that there was a great deal of talk of less importance than so much blowing steam. Presently Ingys took Lora away in his fantastically streamlined car and left Bart thinking—rather nice girl. But I wonder what she really wants? Or if she knows?

most loyalty to me and your mother. What I'm asking won't be easy. I make no excuses for myself. . . . Bart was unsettled by the feeling of a presence in the room. Over there was the rocker where his father used to sit when he dropped in at bedtime with wise advice and funny stories. Then he read on:

In the New York bank is the deed to a parcel of property which is yours in strict confidence. In my deposit box at Port England are two packages of Liberty bonds which you will dispose of according to my wish.

But I want to tell you, without reserve, the circumstances. The property I am giving you I acquired many years ago. Before it had any great value, as a hunting and fishing preserve. Perhaps you recall my occasional wish for solitude. God will believe me when I say that this was all I asked at first. Silence and a space to think things out in. I was very ambitious then.

And what had Mr. McClellan said about dad's arrested ambitions? Now again the letter:

It is years too late to right the wrong I have done your mother. But in my heart I feel mother grave responsibility. Many years ago, when I only wanted to be alone to hunt and fish, I found a lovely woman living on my preserve. She was a refugee from fate. Your mother and I—let me only say that there came domestic crises when husband and wife can be very far apart. I saw a great deal of this other woman and finally married her. Somebody else, some devil, stealing dad's handwriting. . . . can only entrust this work to you, because the secret must not leave our family. As you value your mother's life, the truth must be kept from her always. This will give you a shock, but you are strong. And in the light of justice the other woman is also my wife, and her children mine.

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too methodical. Shaking the large envelope he saw two smaller ones, each weighted with something, thump down on the blotter. And again in Trevor Burgess' handwriting, "Key and order to Port England bank," one said, and the other, "Key and order to Bankers' Trust Company."

Minor puzzles these. Bart unfolded two sheets of closely written script which required close examination because the writing was crooked and crazy.

My Dear Son: Don't read beyond this paragraph unless you feel the ut-

You have to respect the best citizen in the community; also to be head of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company isn't to be despised. But the country needs men like him. Do you know he refused a United States senatorship in 1920?"

Bart remembered something like that; his mother had complained weakly, ineffectually.

"It wasn't his health," insisted the lawyer. "He wouldn't let insurance doctors examine him. Proud of his strength, the man who was devoted to the family that kept him back. Are you going in for a public career?"

"I don't think so, sir. I belong in dad's business."

"Well, maybe you're right. The law's a dull business unless you like it. No coffee, thank you." Mr. McClellan had to catch the train, but in some embarrassment he lingered in the hall, fishing into his brief case until he brought out a long envelope with the familiar letterhead of the Lanchester Life Insurance Company. "I almost forgot this," he smiled hastily, then rushed out toward the waiting car. The envelope, somehow minister, lay in Bart's hand.

Dumbly Bart stood, turning the envelope over. "For Barton L. Burgess" was written across it in his father's script. "Not to be opened until after my death."

The envelope, unopened, was still in his hand. He should have gone to see his mother, as he usually did when she was dining at a tray. Instead he went up to his room, turned on the lights, closed the old-fashioned shutters over the windows. He sat at his desk and was all too

STAGE STOCKS

Daily Stock Summary.

(Copyright, 1933, Standard Statistics Co.)

Index	1933	1932	1931	1930	1929	1928	1927	1926	1925	1924	1923	1922	1921	1920	1919	1918	1917	1916	1915	1914	1913	1912	1911	1910	1909	1908	1907	1906	1905	1904	1903	1902	1901	1900	1899	1898	1897	1896	1895	1894	1893	1892	1891	1890	1889	1888	1887	1886	1885	1884	1883	1882	1881	1880	1879	1878	1877	1876	1875	1874	1873	1872	1871	1870	1869	1868	1867	1866	1865	1864	1863	1862	1861	1860	1859	1858	1857	1856	1855	1854	1853	1852	1851	1850	1849	1848	1847	1846	1845	1844	1843	1842	1841	1840	1839	1838	1837	1836	1835	1834	1833	1832	1831	1830	1829	1828	1827	1826	1825	1824	1823	1822	1821	1820	1819	1818	1817	1816	1815	1814	1813	1812	1811	1810	1809	1808	1807	1806	1805	1804	1803	1802	1801	1800	1799	1798	1797	1796	1795	1794	1793	1792	1791	1790	1789	1788	1787	1786	1785	1784	1783	1782	1781	1780	1779	1778	1777	1776	1775	1774	1773	1772	1771	1770	1769	1768	1767	1766	1765	1764	1763	1762	1761	1760	1759	1758	1757	1756	1755	1754	1753	1752	1751	1750	1749	1748	1747	1746	1745	1744	1743	1742	1741	1740	1739	1738	1737	1736	1735	1734	1733	1732	1731	1730	1729	1728	1727	1726	1725	1724	1723	1722	1721	1720	1719	1718	1717	1716	1715	1714	1713	1712	1711	1710	1709	1708	1707	1706	1705	1704	1703	1702	1701	1700	1699	1698	1697	1696	1695	1694	1693	1692	1691	1690	1689	1688	1687	1686	1685	1684	1683	1682	1681	1680	1679	1678	1677	1676	1675	1674	1673	1672	1671	1670	1669	1668	1667	1666	1665	1664	1663	1662	1661	1660	1659	1658	1657	1656	1655	1654	1653	1652	1651	1650	1649	1648	1647	1646	1645	1644	1643	1642	1641	1640	1639	1638	1637	1636	1635	1634	1633	1632	1631	1630	1629	1628	1627	1626	1625	1624	1623	1622	1621	1620	1619	1618	1617	1616	1615	1614	1613	1612	1611	1610	1609	1608	1607	1606	1605	1604	1603	1602	1601	1600	1599	1598	1597	1596	1595	1594	1593	1592	1591	1590	1589	1588	1587	1586	1585	1584	1583	1582	1581	1580	1579	1578	1577	1576	1575	1574	1573	1572	1571	1570	1569	1568	1567	1566	1565	1564	1563	1562	1561	1560	1559	1558	1557	1556	1555	1554	1553	1552	1551	1550	1549	1548	1547	1546	1545	1544	1543	1542	1541	1540	1539	1538	1537	1536	1535	1534	1533	1532	1531	1530	1529	1528	1527	1526	1525	1524	1523	1522	1521	1520	1519	1518	1517	1516	1515	1514	1513	1512	1511	1510	1509	1508	1507	1506	1505	1504	1503	1502	1501	1500	1499	1498	1497	1496	1495	1494	1493	1492	1491	1490	1489	1488	1487	1486	1485	1484	1483	1482	1481	1480	1479	1478	1477	1476	1475	1474	1473	1472	1471	1470	1469	1468	1467	1466	1465	1464	1463	1462	1461	1460	1459	1458	1457	1456	1455	1454	1453	1452	1451	1450	1449	1448	1447	1446	1445	1444	1443	1442	1441	1440	1439	1438	1437	1436	1435	1434	1433	1432	1431	1430	1429	1428	1427	1426	1425	1424	1423	1422	1421	1420	1419	1418	1417	1416	1415	1414	1413	1412	1411	1410	1409	1408	1407	1406	1405	1404	1403	1402	1401	1400	1399	1398	1397	1396	1395	1394	1393	1392	1391	1390	1389	1388	1387	1386	1385	1384	1383	1382	1381	1380	1379	1378	1377	1376	1375	1374	1373	1372	1371	1370	1369	1368	1367	1366	1365	1364	1363	1362	1361	1360	1359	1358	1357	1356	1355	1354	1353	1352	1351	1350	1349	1348	1347	1346	1345	1344	1343	1342	1341	1340	1339	1338	1337	1336	1335	1334	1333	1332	1331	1330	1329	1328	1327	1326	1325	1324	1323	1322	1321	1320	1319	1318	1317	1316	1315	1314	1313	1312	1311	1310	1309	1308	1307	1306	1305	1304	1303	1302	1301	1300	1299	1298	1297	1296	1295	1294	1293	1292	1291	1290	1289	1288	1287	1286	1285	1284	1283	1282	1281	1280	1279	1278	1277	1276	1275	1274	1273	1272	1271	1270	1269	1268	1267	1266	1265	1264	1263	1262	1261	1260	1259	1258	1257	1256	1255	1254	1253	1252	1251	1250	1249	1248	1247	1246	1245	1244	1243	1242	1241	1240	1239	1238	1237	1236	1235	1234	1233	1232	1231	1230	1229	1228	1227	1226	1225	1224	1223	1222	1221	1220	1219	1218	1217	1216	1215	1214	1213	1212	1211	1210	1209	1208	1207	1206	1205	1204	1203	1202	1201	1200	1199	1198	1197	1196	1195	1194	1193	1192	1191	1190	1189	1188	1187	1186	1185	1184	1183	1182	1181	1180	1179	1178	1177	1176	1175	1174	1173	1172	1171	1170	1169	1168	1167	1166	1165	1164	1163	1162	1161	1160	1159	1158	1157	1156	1155	1154	1153	1152	1151	1150	1149	1148	1147	1146	1145	1144	1143	1142	1141	1140	1139	1138	1137	1136	1135	1134	1133	1132	1131	1130	1129	1128	1127	1126	1125	1124	1123	1122	1121	1120	1119	1118	1117	1116	1115	1114	1113	1112	1111	1110	1109	1108	1107	1106	1105	1104	1103	1102	1101	1100	1099	1098	1097	1096	1095	1094	1093	1092	1091	1090	1089	1088	1087	1086	1085	1084	1083	1082	1081	1080	1079	1078	1077	1076	1075	1074	1073	1072	1071	1070	1069	1068	1067	1066	1065	1064	1063	1062	1061	1060	1059	1058	1057	1056	1055	1054	1053	1052	1051	1050	1049	1048	1047	1046	1045	1044	1043	1042	1041	1040	1039	1038	1037	1036	1035	1034	1033	1032	1031	1030	1029	1028	1027	1026	1025	1024	1023	1022	1021	1020	1019	1018	1017	1016	1015	1014	1013	1012	1011	1010	1009	1008	1007	1006	1005	1004	1003	1002	1001	1000	999	998	997	996	995	994	993	992	991	990	989	988	987	986	985	984	983	982	981	980	979	978	977	976	975	974	973	972	971	970	969	968	967	966	965	964	963	962	961	960	959	958	957	956	955	954	953	952	951	950	949	948	947	946	945	944	943	942	941	940	939	938	937	936	935	934	933	932	931	930	929	928	927	926	925	924	923	922	921	920	919	918	917	916	915	914	913	912	911	910	909	908	907	906	905	904	903	902	901	900	899	898	897	896	895	894	893	892	891	890	889	888	887	886	885	884	883	882	881	880	879	878	877	876	875	874	873	872	871	870	869	868	867	866	865	864	863	862	861	860	859	858	857	856	855	854	853	852	851	850	849	848	847	846	845	844	843	842	841	840	839	838	837	836	835	834	833	832	831	830	829	828	827	826	825	824	823	822	821	820	819	818	817	816	815	814	813	812	811	810	809	808	807	806	805	804	803	802	801	800	799	798	797	796	795	794	793	792	791	790	789	788	787	786	785	784	783	782	781	780	779	778	777	776	775	774	773	772	771	770	769	768	767	766	765	764	763	762	761	760	759	758	757	756	755	754	753	752	751	750	749	748	747	746	745	744	743	742	741	740	739	738	737	736	735	734	733	732	731	730	729	728	727	726	725	724	723	722	721	720	719	718	717	716	715	714	713	712	711	710	709	708	707	706	705	704	703	702	701	700	699	698	697	696	695	694	693	692	691	690	689	688	687	686	685	684	683	682	681	680	679	678	677	676	675	674	673	672	671	670	669	668	667	666	665	664	663	662	661	660	659	658	657	656	655	654	653	652	651	650	649	648	647	646	645	644	643	642	641	640	639	638	637	636	635	634	633	632	631	630	629	628	627	626	625	624	623	622	621	620	619	618	617	616	615	614	613	612	611	610	609	608	607	606	605	604	603	602	601	600	599	598	597	596	595	594	593	592	591	590	589	588	587	586	585	584	583	582	581	580	579	578	577	576	575	574	573	572	571	570	569	568	567	566	565	564	563	562	561	560	559	558	557	556	555	554	553	552	551	550	549	548	547	546	545	544	543	542	541	540	539	538	537	536	535	534	533	532	531	530	529	528
-------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	------	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	--

